(Attach extra Sheets if Needed)

As previously reported in our Current Report on Form 8-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on October 28, 2004, the audit committee of our board of directors has undertaken a detailed review of the accounting treatment of certain software license and service agreement transactions we entered into with certain alliance partners and other customers during the fiscal years ended June 30, 2000, 2001 and 2002.

Prior to October 28, 2004, we had commenced the work necessary to prepare our financial statements and the related Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the fiscal quarter ended September 30, 2004. In connection with the review being conducted by the audit committee, we and the audit committee are reassessing the time periods in which revenue was recognized for these and other transactions and whether any of such transactions has prior or current material financial statement impact. This process is a significant undertaking that is consuming substantial time and resources of the audit committee and a number of our officers and other employees. Because of the additional time and resources required to complete this process, we are unable to complete by the prescribed due date our Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the fiscal quarter ended September 30, 2004 without unreasonable effort or expense. We will make every effort to file the Form 10-Q by November 15, 2004.

Aspen Technology Announces Audit Committee Investigation of Accounting for Transactions in Fiscal Years 2000-2002

Cambridge, Mass October 27, 2004 Aspen Technology, Inc. today announced that its Audit Committee has undertaken a detailed review of the accounting for certain software license and service agreement transactions entered into with certain alliance partners and other customers during fiscal years 2000-2002. The Committee is reassessing the time periods in which revenue was recognized for these transactions and whether any of these transactions have prior or current material financial statement impact. Revenue, earnings, assets or liabilities previously reported could increase, decrease or remain unchanged in those periods as a result of this reassessment. The Audit Committee has notified the Company's current auditor, Deloitte & Touche LLP, and has engaged its own financial and legal advisors to assist it with its investigation.

Based on its preliminary review to date, the Audit Committee believes that one software license transaction in fiscal third quarter 2000 and two transactions in fiscal second quarter 2001 were included in AspenTech's results for such periods without reflecting the impacts of associated arrangements between AspenTech and those customers, which may require revised accounting treatment.

The Committee has also identified a potential contingency associated with a fourth transaction recorded in the fourth fiscal quarter of 2001 which was not reflected in prior accounting, which may require revised accounting treatment.

Cautioning that its work is in its early stages, the Audit Committee presently expects that revised accounting for the foregoing transactions alone would not have a material impact on current revenues and earnings. However, the Audit Committee is vigorously reviewing these and other transactions, and there can be no assurance that its present expectation will not change. Other transactions are under continuing review which could significantly alter the scope of these preliminary views.

The Committee's preliminary assessment contains forward looking statements of presently expected accounting impacts which impacts will be subject to reassessment until completion of the Committee's review. Because the investigation is ongoing and because the scope of its work is evolving, the Committee may have further assessments of these and any other transactions it reviews, as well as of associated Company controls and practices. Consequently, actual results of the Committee's review may vary materially from this preliminary assessment.

The Audit Committee does not expect to provide further updates of its work until completion of its review. At this time, the Audit Committee is unable to provide an anticipated date for completion of its review.

While the Company has previously announced its preliminary results for the recently completed quarter, in light of these developments, the Company is unable to release its financial results for the first quarter of fiscal year 2005 at this time.
