ASURE SOFTWARE URGES STOCKHOLDERS TO VOTE WHITE PROXY CARD;
ALL THREE MAJOR INDEPENDENT PROXY ADVISORY SERVICES CONCLUDE THAT DISSIDENTS' CASE IS NOT STRONG ENOUGH TO WARRANT THEIR GAINING CONTROL OF THE BOARD

AUSTIN, Texas, August [21], 2009 Asure Software (NASDAQ: ASUR), a leading provider of workforce management software, today reiterated its encouragement for all stockholders to return the Company-provided WHITE proxy card with votes FOR the election of Richard J. Agnich, Nancy L. Harris, Lou Mazzucchelli, Ray R. Miles, Richard N. Snyder and James H. Wells to the Board, and FOR the ratification of Ernst & Young as the Company's independent auditor, at the Company's annual meeting of stockholders to be held August 28, 2009.

We are gratified that the three major independent proxy advisory services that have issued recommendations in this contest have all agreed with our position that a complete overhaul of the Board is not in the best interests of our stockholders, said Nancy L. Harris, President and Chief Executive Officer. In their analyses, each concluded that the dissident group led by Pinnacle Fund and Red Oak Partners has not provided a sufficient long-term strategic plan to justify a vote for their entire slate, nor have they presented a strong enough case to remove all of our current directors. They also noted that the current Board and management team have made progress with the long-term strategic transformation of the Company, as reflected by our recent increases in bookings, substantial reductions in operating expenses and other value-creating improvements.

On August 13, 2009, Asure issued preliminary fiscal fourth-quarter results stating that bookings were up 11%, total backlog grew 7%, revenue and gross margins were both up 1%, and 108 new customers were added over the previous quarter.

Two of the proxy advisory services, ISS Governance Services/Risk Metrics Group and Proxy Governance, Inc., released their reports on August 20, 2009, with recommendations that stockholders vote for only two or three of the dissidents' nominees, respectively. As noted in Asure's release of August 18, 2009, Glass Lewis & Co. previously issued its recommendation to vote in favor of four of the six Company-supported nominees.

As we have said repeatedly in our communications to stockholders, we remain open to having productive discussions with the dissident group to consider qualified candidates who would bring added strength to the Board, Harris said. The consensus seems to be that adding two candidates from the dissident slate would be appropriate. We acknowledge this and intend to continue to work with the dissident group to enhance our Board with appropriate representation if stockholders vote in favor of our slate.

In its report, ISS/RiskMetrics stated, "While recognizing that the company has suffered from operating and share price performance issues, we note that the dissident has not provided a detailed operating plan for the company and that several of the changes proposed by the dissidents are similar to the Board's plan. It adds that the Board deserves credit for reducing operating expenses, successfully navigating the Company during challenging economic times, and reshaping the Company with targeted goals for returning Asure to profitability."

In a similar vein, Proxy Governance stated in its report, "We believe shareholders should set a very high bar—such as endemic and fatal conflicts of interests or profound inability to address strategic challenges—to justify a complete replacement of the incumbent board, given the corresponding risk of destabilizing a company. Proxy Governance then concluded that such standard had not been met in this case."
