The Reference Stocks are healthcare industry securities selected by the Equity Research Department of Raymond James. The identity of the Reference Stocks will not change over the term of the notes, except in limited circumstances relating to corporate events that may affect the Reference Stocks, as described in Certain

Terms of the Notes Anti-Dilution Adjustments in the underlying supplement, provided that shares of a corporation resident in Canada for purposes of the Income Tax Act (Canada) shall not be eligible for substitution as described therein. There is no assurance that any Reference Stock Issuer will be successful or that the price of any Reference Stock will increase. See Information Regarding the Reference Stocks Selection of the Composition of the Basket in this pricing supplement.

Redemption Amount: The amount that you will receive at maturity for each $1,000 in principal amount of the notes will depend upon the performance of the Basket and the dividends paid on the Reference Stocks. The Redemption Amount will equal:

$$$1,000 \times \text{the Basket Level Percentage} \times \text{the Participation Rate.}$$

As discussed in more detail below, the Basket Level Percentage must exceed approximately 100.96% in order for you to receive a Redemption Amount that exceeds the principal amount of the notes. In addition, the Redemption Amount could be substantially less than the principal amount of the notes.

Participation Rate: 99.05%. Because the Participation Rate is less than 100%, the Basket Level Percentage must exceed approximately 100.96% in order for you to receive a Redemption Amount that exceeds the principal amount of the notes.

Basket Level Percentage: The sum of the Weighted Reference Stock Performances.

Weighted Reference Stock Performance: For each Reference Stock, the product of (a) its Reference Stock Performance and (b) its Reference Stock Weighting.

Reference Stock Weighting: For each Reference Stock, 1/15 (approximately 6.6667%), except as described below under Potential Unequal Weighting.

Reference Stock Performance: The Reference Stock Performance will measure the change in value of each Reference Stock over the term of the notes, including the payment of certain dividends. For each Reference Stock, its Reference Stock Performance will equal (a) its Final Price divided by (b) its Initial Price, expressed as a percentage.

Initial Price: For each Reference Stock, its Closing Price on the Pricing Date, subject to adjustment as described under Certain Terms of the Notes Anti-Dilution Adjustments in the underlying supplement, provided that adjustments related to an extraordinary dividend of a Reference Stock will not be made to its Initial Price because the extraordinary dividend will be reflected in its Final Price.

Final Price: For each Reference Stock, the sum of (a) its Closing Price on the Final Valuation Date, and (b) its Dividend Amount.

Dividend Amount: For each Reference Stock, an amount in U.S. dollars equal to 100% of the gross cash distributions (including ordinary and extraordinary dividends), after withholding tax, if any, per share of the Reference Stock declared by the applicable Reference Stock Issuer where the date that the Reference Stock has commenced trading ex-dividend on its primary U.S. securities exchange as to each relevant distribution occurs from (and including) the Pricing Date to (and including) the Final Valuation Date, as determined by the calculation agent. If any Dividend Amount announced and/or declared by the relevant Reference Stock Issuer is not paid as so announced or declared, or is paid in a smaller amount, the calculation agent shall make such adjustments to the Basket as shall be necessary to reflect the actual amount received by holders of the Reference Stocks. The positive effect of any Dividend Amounts on the Redemption Amount will be reduced as a result of the Participation Rate.

Potential Unequal Weighting:

On the Pricing Date, we may determine, in our sole discretion, that one or more of the Reference Stocks has relatively lower liquidity than most or all of the other Reference Stocks. In such circumstances, we reserve the right to assign a Reference Stock Weighting for that Reference Stock or those Reference Stocks (each a Lower Weight Reference Stock) that is less than 1/15 (approximately 6.6667%).

For example:

- If we assign a Reference Stock Weighting of only 1% to one Lower Weight Reference Stock, the other 14 Reference Stocks will account for the remaining 99% of the Basket, and therefore, will each have a Reference Stock Weighting of approximately 7.0714% (99% divided by 14), instead of 1/15 (approximately 6.6667%).
- If we assign a Reference Stock Weighting of 2% to one Lower Weight Reference Stock and 3% to another Lower Weight Reference Stock, the other 13 Reference Stocks will account for the remaining 95% of the Basket, and therefore, will each have a Reference Stock Weighting of approximately 7.3077% (95% divided by 13), instead of 1/15 (approximately 6.6667%).
- If we assign a Reference Stock Weighting of 1% to three different Lower Weight Reference Stocks, the other 12 Reference Stocks will account for the remaining 97% of the Basket, and therefore, will each have a Reference Stock Weighting of approximately 8.0833% (97% divided by 12), instead of 1/15 (approximately 6.6667%).

The final pricing supplement will set forth whether or not there are any Lower Weight Reference Stocks in the Basket, and the actual Reference Stock Weighting of each Reference Stock.

Calculation Agent:

Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce

CUSIP/ISIN:

The price at which you purchase the notes includes costs that the Bank or its affiliates expect to incur and profits that the Bank or its affiliates expect to realize in connection with hedging activities related to the notes.

PS-5

HYPOTHETICAL PAYMENT AT MATURITY

The following hypothetical examples are provided for illustrative purposes only. They do not purport to be representative of every possible scenario concerning increases or decreases in the value of the Basket and the related effect on the Redemption Amount. The following hypothetical examples illustrate the payment you would receive on the Maturity Date if you purchased $1,000 in principal amount of the notes. Numbers appearing in the examples below have been rounded for ease of analysis. The examples below are based on the Participation Rate of 99.05%.

Basket Level Percentage	Redemption Amount per $1,000 in Principal Amount	Percentage Gain (or Loss) per $1,000 in Principal Amount
140.00%	$1,386.70	38.670%
130.00%	$1,287.65	28.765%
120.00%	$1,188.60	18.860%
110.00%	$1,089.55	8.955%
105.00%	$1,040.03	4.003%
100.96%(1)	$1,000.00	0.000%
100.00%(2)	$990.50	-0.950%
95.00%	$940.98	-5.902%
90.00%	$891.45	-10.855%
80.00%	$792.40	-20.760%
70.00%	$693.35	-30.665%
60.00%	$594.30	-40.570%

(1) For you to receive a Redemption Amount greater than the principal amount of the notes, the Basket Level Percentage must be greater than approximately 100.96%, because the Participation Rate is only 99.05%.

(2) If the Basket Level Percentage is less than approximately 100.96%, you will lose some or all of the principal amount of the notes.

Please see Additional Risk Factors Your Investment in the Notes May Result in a Loss below.

INVESTOR SUITABILITY

The notes may be suitable for you if:

- You believe that the Basket Level Percentage will be greater than approximately 100.96%.
- You understand that the Participation Rate is less than 100%, which will negatively affect your return on the notes.
- You are willing to accept the risk that you may lose up to 100% of the principal amount of the notes at maturity.
- You do not seek current income over the term of the notes.
- You do not seek an investment for which there will be an active secondary market.
- You are willing to assume the credit risk of the Bank for any payments under the notes.

The notes may not be suitable for you if:

- You believe that the Basket Level Percentage will be less than approximately 100.96%.
- You are unwilling to accept that the Participation Rate is less than 100%, which will negatively affect your return on the notes.
- You are unwilling to accept the risk that you may lose up to 100% of the principal amount of the notes at maturity.
- You seek full payment of the principal amount of the notes at maturity.
- You seek current income over the term of the notes.

- You are unable or unwilling to hold the notes to maturity.
- You seek an investment for which there will be an active secondary market.
- You are not willing to assume the credit risk of the Bank for all payments under the notes.

The investor suitability considerations identified above are not exhaustive. Whether or not the notes are a suitable investment for you will depend on your individual circumstances and you should reach an investment decision only after you and your investment, legal, tax, accounting and other advisors have carefully considered the suitability of an investment in the notes in light of your particular circumstances. You should also review Additional Risk Factors below for risks related to the notes.

ADDITIONAL RISK FACTORS

An investment in the notes involves significant risks. In addition to the following risks included in this pricing supplement, we urge you to read Risk Factors beginning on page S-1 of the accompanying underlying supplement, page S-1 of the accompanying prospectus supplement and page 1 of the accompanying prospectus.

You should understand the risks of investing in the notes and should reach an investment decision only after careful consideration, with your advisers, of the suitability of the notes in light of your particular financial circumstances and the information set forth in this pricing supplement and the accompanying underlying supplement, the prospectus supplement and the prospectus.

Your Investment in the Notes May Result in a Loss.

The notes do not guarantee any return of principal. The amount payable on the notes at maturity will depend on the performance of the Reference Stocks and the dividends declared on the Reference Stocks, and may be less, and possibly significantly less, than the principal amount. If the prices of the Reference Stocks decrease and the applicable Dividend Amounts are not sufficient to offset that decrease, the payment at maturity will be less than the principal amount.

In addition, because the Participation Rate is only 99.05%, the Basket Level Percentage must exceed approximately 100.96% in order for you to receive a Redemption Amount that exceeds the principal amount. You may lose all or a substantial portion of the amount that you invested to purchase the notes. You may incur a loss even if the Basket Level Percentage is positive (but less than approximately 100.96%). Please also see The Notes Will Not Reflect the Full Performance of the Reference Stocks, Which May Negatively Impact Your Return.

The Notes Will Not Reflect the Full Performance of the Reference Stocks, Which May Negatively Impact Your Return.

Because the calculation of the Redemption Amount includes a Participation Rate of less than 100%, the return, if any, on the notes will not reflect the full performance of the Reference Stocks. Therefore, the yield to maturity based on the methodology for calculating the Redemption Amount will be less than the yield that would be produced if the Reference Stocks were purchased and held for a similar period.

No Periodic Interest Will Be Paid on the Notes.

No periodic interest will be paid on the notes. However, because it is possible that the notes may be classified for U.S. federal income tax purposes as contingent payment debt instruments rather than prepaid cash-settled derivative contracts, you may be required to accrue interest income over the term of your notes. See Summary of U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences in this pricing supplement.

Payment on the Notes Is Subject to Our Credit Risk, and Actual or Perceived Changes in Our Creditworthiness Are Expected to Affect the Value of the Notes.

The notes are our senior unsecured debt obligations and are not, either directly or indirectly, an obligation of any third party. As further described in the accompanying prospectus and prospectus supplement, the notes will rank on par with all of our other unsecured and unsubordinated debt obligations, except such obligations as may be preferred by operation of law. Any payment to be made on the notes depends on our ability to satisfy our obligations as they come due. As a result, the actual and perceived creditworthiness of us may affect the market value of the notes and, in the event we were to default on our obligations, you may not receive the amounts owed to you under the terms of the notes. If we default on our obligations under the notes, your investment would be at risk and you could lose some or all of your investment. See

Description of the Notes We May Offer Events of Default in the accompanying prospectus supplement.

The Bank's Initial Estimated Value of the Notes Will Be Lower than the Initial Issue Price (Price to Public) of the Notes.

The initial issue price of the notes will exceed the Bank's initial estimated value because costs associated with selling and structuring the notes, as well as hedging the notes, are included in the initial issue price of the notes. See The Bank's Estimated Value of the Notes in this pricing supplement.

The Bank's Initial Estimated Value of the Notes Does Not Represent Future Values of the Notes and May Differ from Others' Estimates.

The Bank's initial estimated value of the notes is only an estimate, which will be determined by reference to the Bank's internal pricing models when the terms of the notes are set. This estimated value will be based on market conditions and other relevant factors existing at that time, the Bank's internal funding rate on the Trade Date and the Bank's assumptions about market parameters, which can include volatility, dividend rates, interest rates and other factors. Different pricing models and assumptions could provide valuations for the notes that are greater or less than the Bank's initial estimated value. In addition, market conditions and other relevant factors in the future may change, and any assumptions may prove to be incorrect. On future dates, the market value of the notes could change significantly based on, among other things, changes in market conditions, including the prices of the Reference Stocks, the Bank's creditworthiness, interest rate movements and other relevant factors, which may impact the price at which the agent or any other party would be willing to buy the notes from you in any secondary market transactions. The Bank's initial estimated value does not represent a minimum price at which the agent or any other party would be willing to buy the notes in any secondary market (if any exists) at any time. See "The Bank's Estimated Value of the Notes" in this pricing supplement.

The Bank's Initial Estimated Value of the Notes Will Not Be Determined by Reference to Credit Spreads for Our Conventional Fixed-Rate Debt.

The internal funding rate to be used in the determination of the Bank's initial estimated value of the notes generally represents a discount from the credit spreads for our conventional fixed-rate debt. The discount is based on, among other things, our view of the funding value of the notes as well as the higher issuance, operational and ongoing liability management costs of the notes in comparison to those costs for our conventional fixed-rate debt. If the Bank were to use the interest rate implied by our conventional fixed-rate debt, we would expect the economic terms of the notes to be more favorable to you. Consequently, our use of an internal funding rate for market-linked notes would have an adverse effect on the economic terms of the notes, the initial estimated value of the notes on the Trade Date, and any secondary market prices of the notes. See "The Bank's Estimated Value of the Notes" in this pricing supplement.

Any Increase in the Price of One or More Reference Stocks May Be Offset by Decreases in the Price of One or More Other Reference Stocks.

The price of one or more of the Reference Stocks may increase while the price of one or more of the other Reference Stocks decreases. Therefore, in determining the value of the Basket at any time, increases in the price of one Reference Stock may be moderated, or wholly offset, by decreases in the price of one or more other Reference Stocks. In addition, if the final pricing supplement sets forth one or more Lower Weight Reference Stocks, any increases in the value of any Lower Weight Reference Stock will have a smaller impact on the payment of the notes than if that Lower Weight Reference Stock had been assigned a Reference Stock Weighting that was equal to that of the other Reference Stocks. The positive performance of that Lower Weight Reference Stock will offset to a lesser extent any decrease in value of any Reference Stock with a higher weighting.

The Final Price of Each Reference Stock Is Based on Its Closing Price on the Final Valuation Date and May Be Less Than the Closing Price of That Reference Stock on Trading Days Other Than the Final Valuation Date.

The Final Price of each Reference Stock will be calculated based on the Closing Price of that Reference Stock on the Final Valuation Date. The Reference Stock prices on Trading Days other than the Final Valuation Date will not be used to determine the Redemption Amount. Therefore, no matter how high the prices of the relevant Reference Stocks may be during the term of the notes, only the Closing Prices of the Reference Stocks on the Final Valuation Date will be used to calculate the applicable Final Prices and the Redemption Amount payable to you at maturity.

The Reference Stocks Are Concentrated in One Sector and Correlation Among the Reference Stocks May Affect the Value of Your Notes.

All of the Reference Stocks are issued by companies in the healthcare sector and, as a result, an investment in the notes will increase your exposure to fluctuations in that industry. The Reference Stocks may not represent a diversified portfolio of securities. To the extent that the Reference Stocks move in the same direction (i.e., are highly correlated), you will lose some or all of the benefits that would ordinarily apply to a diversified portfolio of securities.

PS-9

Companies in the Healthcare Industry Are Subject to a Variety of Risks.

The Reference Stocks are issued by companies in the healthcare industry, and all face a variety of risks. For example, companies in the healthcare industry are subject to extensive government regulation and their profitability can be significantly affected by restrictions on government reimbursement for medical expenses, rising costs of medical products and services, pricing pressure, and limited product lines. Companies in the healthcare industry are heavily dependent on obtaining and defending patents, which may be time consuming and costly, and the expiration of patents may also adversely affect the profitability of these companies. Healthcare companies may also be subject to extensive litigation based on product liability and similar claims. In addition, their products can become obsolete due to industry innovation, changes in technologies or other market developments. Many new products in the healthcare industry require significant research and development and may be subject to regulatory approvals, all of which may be time consuming. Any of these factors can reduce the prices of the Reference Stocks and your return on the notes.

Certain Business, Trading and Hedging Activities of Us, CIBCWM, Raymond James or Our Respective Affiliates May Create Conflicts with Your Interests and Could Potentially Adversely Affect the Value of the Notes.

We, CIBCWM, Raymond James, and our respective affiliates may engage in trading and other business activities related to a Reference Stock that are not for your account or on your behalf. We, CIBCWM, Raymond James, and our respective affiliates also may issue or underwrite other financial instruments with returns based upon a Reference Stock. These activities may present a conflict of interest between your interest in the notes and the interests that we, CIBCWM, Raymond James, and our respective affiliates may have in our or their proprietary accounts, in facilitating transactions, including block trades, for our or their other customers, and in accounts under our or their management. These trading and other business activities, if they influence the price of any Reference Stock or secondary trading in your notes, could be adverse to your interests as a beneficial owner of the notes.

Moreover, we, CIBCWM, Raymond James, and our respective affiliates play a variety of roles in connection with the issuance of the notes, including hedging our obligations under the notes and making the assumptions and inputs used to determine the pricing of the notes and the initial estimated value of the notes when the terms of the notes are set. We expect to hedge our obligations under the notes through one of our affiliates and/or another unaffiliated counterparty. Any of these hedging activities may adversely affect the price of a Reference Stock and therefore the market value of the notes and the amount you will receive, if any, on the notes. In connection with such activities, the economic interests of us, CIBCWM, Raymond James, and our respective affiliates may be adverse to your interests as an investor in the notes. Any of these activities may adversely affect the value of the notes. In addition, because hedging our obligations entails risk and may be influenced by market forces beyond our control, this hedging activity may result in a profit that is more or less than expected, or it may result in a loss. We or one or more of our affiliates will retain any profits realized in hedging our obligations under the notes even if investors do not receive a favorable investment return under the terms of the notes or in any secondary market transaction. Any profit in connection with such hedging activities will be in addition to any other compensation that we and our affiliates receive for the sale of the notes, which creates an additional incentive to sell the notes to you. We, CIBCWM, Raymond James, and our respective affiliates will have no obligation to take, refrain from taking or cease taking any action with respect to these transactions based on the potential effect on an investor in the notes.

There Are Potential Conflicts of Interest Between You and the Calculation Agent.

The calculation agent will determine, among other things, the amount of your payment at maturity on the notes. The calculation agent will exercise its judgment when performing its functions. For example, the calculation agent will determine whether a Market Disruption Event affecting a Reference Stock has occurred, and make a good faith estimate in its sole discretion of the Closing Price for an affected Reference Stock if the Final Valuation Date is postponed to the last possible day, and make certain anti-dilution adjustments with respect to a Reference

Edgar Filing: CANADIAN IMPERIAL BANK OF COMMERCE /CAN/ - Form 424B2

Stock if certain corporate events occur. See Certain Terms of the Notes Valuation Dates and Anti-Dilution Adjustments in the underlying supplement. This determination may, in turn, depend on the calculation agent's judgment as to whether the event has materially interfered with our ability or the ability of one of our affiliates to unwind our hedge positions. The calculation agent will be required to carry out its duties in good faith and use its reasonable judgment. However, because we will be the calculation agent, potential conflicts of interest could arise. Neither we nor any of our affiliates will have any obligation to consider your interests as a holder of the notes in taking any action that might affect the value of your notes.

PS-10

The Notes Are Subject to Risks Associated with Reference Stocks that Have a Limited Trading History.

The common stock of Avanos Medical, Inc. began trading on October 31, 2014, the common stock of CareTrust REIT, Inc. began trading on June 1, 2014 and common stock of Nuvectra Corporation began trading on March 14, 2016. Accordingly, there is very limited trading history available for these Reference Stocks upon which you can evaluate their prior performance.

The Notes May Be Subject to Non-U.S. Securities Markets Risk.

An investment in securities linked to the value of non-U.S. companies, such as Teva Pharmaceutical Industries Limited, which is an Israel issuer, involves risks associated with the home country of such non-U.S. companies. The prices of such non-U.S. companies' common equity securities may be affected by political, economic, financial and social factors in the home country of such non-U.S. companies, including changes in such country's government, economic and fiscal policies, currency exchange laws or other laws or restrictions, which could adversely affect the value of the notes.

The Inclusion of the Reference Stocks in the Basket Does Not Guarantee a Positive Return on the Notes.

The inclusion of the Reference Stocks in the Basket does not guarantee a positive return on the notes. There can be no assurance that any Reference Stock, or the Basket in its entirety, will increase in value. The performance of the Reference Stocks may be less than the performance of the equities markets generally, less than the performance of other healthcare companies that are not included in the Basket, less than the performance of other sectors of the equity markets, or less than the performance of other securities in which you may choose to invest. The Reference Stocks were selected by the Equity Research Department at Raymond James, but any views expressed by such research department are separate and apart from the offering of these notes and do not constitute investment advice. There is no assurance that any Reference Stock Issuer will be successful or that the price of any Reference Stock will increase. Although dividends have been paid on the Reference Stocks in the past, there can be no assurance that they will be paid in the future, or that any such dividends will be paid at the same rate as they have been in the past. Our offering of the notes does not constitute our recommendation or the recommendation of Raymond James or any of our respective affiliates to invest in the notes or in the Reference Stocks.

Industry Consolidation and Other Corporate Events May Alter the Composition of the Basket.

If a Reference Stock Issuer is acquired in a stock-for-stock transaction, the stock of the acquiring company will assume that Reference Stock's place in the Basket, including if the stock of the acquiring company is already in the Basket. Consequently, any consolidation among issuers of the Reference Stocks will result in an increased weighting in the Basket for the surviving company. The effects on the Basket and the Initial Prices of the Reference Stocks of consolidation transactions and other reorganization events with respect to the Reference Stocks are described in Certain Terms of the Notes' Anti-Dilution Adjustments' in the underlying supplement.

There Will Be Limited Anti-Dilution Protection.

For certain events affecting shares of a Reference Stock, such as stock splits or stock dividends, the calculation agent may make adjustments which may adversely affect any payments on the notes. However, the calculation agent is not required to make an adjustment for every corporate action which affects the price of a Reference Stock. If an event occurs that does not require the calculation agent to adjust the price of a Reference Stock, the market value of the notes and the amount due on the notes may be materially and adversely affected.

The Notes Will Not Be Listed on Any Securities Exchange or Any Inter-Dealer Quotation System, and There May Be No Secondary Market for the Notes.

The notes are most suitable for purchasing and holding to maturity. The notes will be new securities for which there is no trading market. The notes will not be listed on any securities exchange or any inter-dealer quotation system. We cannot assure you as to whether there will be a trading or secondary market for the notes or, if there were to be such a trading or secondary market, that it would be liquid.

Under ordinary market conditions, CIBCWM or any of our other affiliates may (but are not obligated to) make a secondary market for the notes. However, they may cease doing so at any time. Because we do not expect other broker-dealers to participate in the secondary market for the notes, the price at which you may be able to trade your notes is likely to depend on the price, if any, at which CIBCWM or any of our other affiliates are willing to transact. If none of CIBCWM or any of our other affiliates makes a market for the notes, there will not be a secondary market for the notes. Accordingly, we cannot assure you as to the development or liquidity of any secondary market for the notes. If a secondary market in the notes is not developed or maintained, you may not be able to sell your notes easily or at prices that will provide you with a yield comparable to that of similar securities that have a liquid secondary market.

Significant Aspects of the Tax Treatment of The Notes Are Uncertain.

Significant aspects of the tax treatment of the notes are uncertain. You should consult your tax advisor about your own tax situation. See Summary of U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences and Certain Canadian Federal Income Tax Considerations in this pricing supplement, Certain U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences in the underlying supplement, and Material Income Tax Consequences Canadian Taxation in the prospectus.

THE BANK'S ESTIMATED VALUE OF THE NOTES

The Bank's initial estimated value of the notes set forth on the cover of this pricing supplement is equal to the sum of the values of the following hypothetical components: (1) a fixed-income debt component with the same maturity as the notes, valued using our internal funding rate for structured debt described below, and (2) the derivative or derivatives underlying the economic terms of the notes. The Bank's initial estimated value does not represent a minimum price at which CIBCWM or any other person would be willing to buy your notes in any secondary market (if any exists) at any time. The internal funding rate used in the determination of the Bank's initial estimated value generally represents a discount from the credit spreads for our conventional fixed-rate debt. The discount is based on, among other things, our view of the funding value of the notes as well as the higher issuance, operational and ongoing liability management costs of the notes in comparison to those costs for our conventional fixed-rate debt. For additional information, see "Additional Risk Factors: The Bank's Initial Estimated Value of the Notes Will Not Be Determined by Reference to Credit Spreads for Our Conventional Fixed-Rate Debt" in this pricing supplement. The value of the derivative or derivatives underlying the economic terms of the notes is derived from the Bank's or a third party hedge provider's internal pricing models. These models are dependent on inputs such as the traded market prices of comparable derivative instruments and on various other inputs, some of which are market-observable, and which can include volatility, dividend rates, interest rates and other factors, as well as assumptions about future market events and/or environments. Accordingly, the Bank's initial estimated value of the notes will be determined when the terms of the notes are set based on market conditions and other relevant factors and assumptions existing at that time. See "Additional Risk Factors: The Bank's Initial Estimated Value of the Notes Does Not Represent Future Values of the Notes and May Differ from Others' Estimates" in this pricing supplement.

The Bank's initial estimated value of the notes will be lower than the initial issue price of the notes because costs associated with selling, structuring and hedging the notes are included in the initial issue price of the notes. These costs include the projected profits that our hedge counterparties, which may include our affiliates, expect to realize for assuming risks inherent in hedging our obligations under the notes and the estimated cost of hedging our obligations under the notes. Because hedging our obligations entails risk and may be influenced by market forces beyond our control, this hedging may result in a profit that is more or less than expected, or it may result in a loss. We or one or more of our affiliates will retain any profits realized in hedging our obligations under the notes. See "Additional Risk Factors: The Bank's Initial Estimated Value of the Notes Will Be Lower than the Initial Issue Price (Price to Public) of the Notes" in this pricing supplement.

SUPPLEMENTAL PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION (CONFLICTS OF INTEREST)

Pursuant to the terms of a distribution agreement, CIBCWM will purchase the notes from the Bank for distribution through Raymond James, which will act as agent in the distribution of the notes. The notes sold to investors will be offered at the issue price of $1,000 per note. No commissions will be paid in connection with the sale of the notes. Raymond James will also receive licensing fees for its research related to the Reference Stocks, as described in Information Regarding the Reference Stocks License Agreement.

We expect to deliver the notes against payment therefor in New York, New York on a date that is more than two Business Days following the Pricing Date. Under Rule 15c6-1 of the Exchange Act, trades in the secondary market generally are required to settle in two Business Days, unless the parties to any such trade expressly agree otherwise. Accordingly, purchasers who wish to trade the notes on any date prior to two Business Days before delivery will be required to specify alternative settlement arrangements to prevent a failed settlement.

The Bank owns, directly or indirectly, all of the outstanding equity securities of CIBCWM. In accordance with FINRA Rule 5121, CIBCWM may not make sales in this offering to any of its discretionary accounts without the prior written approval of the customer.

The Bank may use this pricing supplement in the initial sale of the notes. In addition, CIBCWM or another of the Bank's affiliates may use this pricing supplement in market-making transactions in any notes after their initial sale. Unless CIBCWM or we inform you otherwise in the confirmation of sale, this pricing supplement is being used by CIBCWM in a market-making transaction.

While CIBCWM may make markets in the notes, it is under no obligation to do so and may discontinue any market-making activities at any time without notice. See the section titled Supplemental Plan of Distribution (Conflicts of Interest) in the accompanying prospectus supplement.

The price at which you purchase the notes includes costs that the Bank or its affiliates expect to incur and profits that the Bank or its affiliates expect to realize in connection with hedging activities related to the notes. These costs and profits will likely reduce the secondary market price, if any secondary market develops, for the notes. As a result, you may experience an immediate and substantial decline in the market value of your notes on the Original Issue Date.

The notes may not be offered, sold or otherwise made available to any retail investor in the European Economic Area (the EEA). Consequently no key information document required by Regulation (EU) No 1286/2014 (the PRIIPs Regulation) for offering or selling the notes or otherwise making them available to retail investors in the EEA has been prepared and therefore offering or selling the notes or otherwise making them available to any retail investor in the EEA may be unlawful under the PRIIPs Regulation. For the purposes of this provision:

- (a) the expression retail investor means a person who is one (or more) of the following:
 - (i) a retail client as defined in point (11) of Article 4(1) of Directive 2014/65/EU (as amended, MiFID II);

(ii) a customer within the meaning of Directive 2002/92/EC, where that customer would not qualify as a professional client as defined in point (10) of Article 4(1) of MiFID II; or

(iii) not a qualified investor as defined in Directive 2003/71/EC; and

(b) the expression an offer includes the communication in any form and by any means of sufficient information on the terms of the offer and the notes to be offered so as to enable an investor to decide to purchase or subscribe for the notes.

PS-23

SUMMARY OF U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES

The following discussion is a brief summary of the material U.S. federal income consequences relating to an investment in the notes. The following summary is not complete and is both qualified and supplemented by, or in some cases supplements, the discussion entitled "Certain U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences" beginning on page S-20 of the underlying supplement, which you should carefully review prior to investing in the notes.

The U.S. federal income tax consequences of your investment in the notes are uncertain. No statutory, judicial or administrative authority directly discusses how the notes should be treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes. In the opinion of our tax counsel, Mayer Brown LLP, it would generally be reasonable to treat the notes as prepaid cash-settled derivative contracts. Pursuant to the terms of the notes, you agree to treat the notes in this manner for all U.S. federal income tax purposes. If your notes are so treated, you should generally recognize capital gain or loss upon the sale, exchange, redemption or payment on maturity in an amount equal to the difference between the amount you receive at such time and the amount that you paid for your notes. Such gain or loss should generally be long-term capital gain or loss if you have held your notes for more than one year. The Issuer will report periodic payments designated as interest as ordinary income to U.S. Holders.

The Dividend Amount paid to holders of the notes will not be treated by us as a pass through of an actual dividend paid on the Reference Stocks. As a result, an individual holder of a note will not be entitled to treat the Dividend Amount as qualified dividend income eligible for the lower tax rates applicable to such income. Concomitantly, a corporate holder of a note will not be entitled to corporate dividends received deduction with respect to the Dividend Amount.

Alternative Treatments. As noted above, there is no judicial or administrative authority discussing how the notes should be treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes. Therefore, other treatments would also be reasonable and the Internal Revenue Service might assert that treatment other than that described above is more appropriate.

For example, the notes may be properly treated as a custodial arrangement under which CIBC is treated as holding the Basket on behalf of note holders. In this case, any dividends paid on the Basket would be immediately taxable to note holders, even though note holders would not receive a distribution at such time. Additionally, in this case, the Internal Revenue Service could also assert that a holder should be required to treat any amounts attributable to the Participation Rate as separate investment expenses to the extent the Participation Rate is less than 100%. No deduction of any such deemed expenses would be available to a holder who is an individual, trust or estate. Such amount could correspondingly increase the amount of gain and income or decrease the amount of loss recognized by a holder with respect to an investment in the notes, unless the holder elected to capitalize such costs.

Although unlikely, another possible alternative treatment is that a note could be treated as a single debt instrument subject to the special tax rules governing contingent payment debt instruments. If the notes are so treated, you would be required to accrue interest income over the term of a note based upon the yield at which we would issue a non-contingent fixed-rate debt instrument with other terms and conditions similar to your note. You would recognize gain or loss upon the sale, call or maturity of the note in an amount equal to the difference, if any, between the amount you receive at such time and your adjusted basis in the note. In general, your adjusted basis in the note would be equal to the amount you paid for the note, increased by the amount of interest you previously accrued with respect to the note. Any gain you recognize upon the sale, call or maturity of the note would be ordinary income and any loss recognized by you at such time would generally be ordinary loss to the extent of interest you included in income in the current or previous taxable years with respect to the note, and thereafter would be capital loss.

If a note is treated as a contingent payment debt instrument and you purchase a note in the secondary market at a price that is at a discount from, or in excess of, the adjusted issue price of the note, such excess or discount would not be subject to the generally applicable market discount or amortizable bond premium rules but rather would be subject to special rules set forth in treasury regulations governing contingent payment debt instruments. Accordingly, if you purchase a note in the secondary market, you should consult your tax advisor as to the possible application of such rules to you.

In addition, the Internal Revenue Service has released a notice that may affect the taxation of holders of prepaid forward contracts and similar instruments. According to the notice, the Internal Revenue Service and the U.S. Treasury are actively considering whether the holder of such instruments should be required to accrue ordinary income on a current basis, and they are seeking taxpayer comments on the subject. While it is not clear whether the notes would be viewed as similar to such instruments, it is possible that any future guidance could materially and adversely affect the tax consequences of an investment in the notes, possibly with retroactive effect.

Because of the absence of authority regarding the appropriate tax characterization of the notes, it is possible that the Internal Revenue Service could seek to characterize the notes in a manner that results in tax consequences to you that are different from those described above. For example, the Internal Revenue Service could possibly assert that any gain or loss that a holder may recognize upon the sale or maturity of the notes should be treated as ordinary gain or loss. In addition, it is possible that the amount an individual holder receives upon sale or maturity that is attributable to the Dividend Amount will be taxable as a dividend, which may be treated, in whole or in part, as qualified dividend income, subject to the reduced tax rate applicable to net long-term capital gains. Holders should consult their tax advisors as to the tax consequences of such characterizations and any possible alternative characterizations of the notes for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

We do not believe that the constructive ownership transaction rules of Section 1260 of the Code apply to this offering.

You are urged to consult your tax advisors concerning the significance, and the potential impact, of the above considerations.

For a more detailed discussion of certain alternative characterizations with respect to your notes and certain other considerations with respect to your investment in the notes, you should consider the discussion set forth in Certain U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the underlying supplement. We are not responsible for any adverse consequences that you may experience as a result of any alternative characterization of the notes for U.S. federal income tax or other tax purposes.

Regarding the discussion in the underlying supplement with respect to a dividend equivalent payment made with respect to a U.S. stock or equity-linked debt instrument under the section entitled Tax Consequences to Non-U.S. Holders, even if the notes should be treated as equity-linked instruments, we believe that the notes should not be considered to have a delta of 1.0. If the Internal Revenue Service agrees with this interpretation, the notes should be exempt from the withholding tax rules specified for dividend equivalents.

You should consult your tax advisor as to the tax consequences of such characterization and any possible alternative characterizations of the notes for U.S. federal income tax purposes. You should also consult your tax advisor concerning the U.S. federal income tax and other tax consequences of your investment in the notes in your particular circumstances, including the application of state, local or other tax laws and the possible effects of changes in federal or other tax laws.

CERTAIN CANADIAN FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSIDERATIONS

In the opinion of Blake, Cassels & Graydon LLP, our Canadian tax counsel, the following summary describes the principal Canadian federal income tax considerations under the Income Tax Act (Canada) and the regulations thereto (the Canadian Tax Act) generally applicable at the date hereof to a purchaser who acquires beneficial ownership of a note pursuant to this pricing supplement and who for the purposes of the Canadian Tax Act and at all relevant times: (a) is neither resident nor deemed to be resident in Canada; (b) deals at arm's length with the Issuer and any transferee resident (or deemed to be resident) in Canada to whom the purchaser disposes of the note; (c) does not use or hold and is not deemed to use or hold the note in, or in the course of, carrying on a business in Canada; (d) is entitled to receive all payments (including any interest and principal) made on the note; and (e) is not a, and deals at arm's length with any, specified shareholder of the Issuer for purposes of the thin capitalization rules in the Canadian Tax Act (a Non-Resident Holder). A specified shareholder for these purposes generally includes a person who (either alone or together with persons with whom that person is not dealing at arm's length for the purposes of the Canadian Tax Act) owns or has the right to acquire or control or is otherwise deemed to own 25% or more of the Issuer's shares determined on a votes or fair market value basis. Special rules which apply to non-resident insurers carrying on business in Canada and elsewhere are not discussed in this summary.

This summary assumes that none of the Reference Stocks, or any other stock substituted for a Reference Stock as described under Certain Terms of the Notes Anti-Dilution Adjustments Reorganization Events in the underlying supplement, will at any relevant time be stock of a company resident in Canada for purposes of the Canadian Tax Act of a Non-Resident Holder.

This summary is supplemental to and should be read together with the description of material Canadian federal income tax considerations relevant to a Non-Resident Holder owning notes under Material Income Tax Consequences Canadian Taxation in the accompanying prospectus and a Non-Resident Holder should carefully read that description as well.

This summary is of a general nature only and is not intended to be, nor should it be construed to be, legal or tax advice to any particular Non-Resident Holder. Non-Resident Holders are advised to consult with their own tax advisors with respect to their particular circumstances.

Based on Canadian tax counsel's understanding of the Canada Revenue Agency's administrative policies, and having regard to the terms of the notes, interest payable on the notes should not be considered to be participating debt interest as defined in the Canadian Tax Act and accordingly, a Non-Resident Holder should not be subject to Canadian non-resident withholding tax in respect of amounts paid or credited or deemed to have been paid or credited by the Issuer on a note as, on account of or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, interest.

Non-Resident Holders should consult their own advisors regarding the consequences to them of a disposition of notes to a person with whom they are not dealing at arm's length for purposes of the Canadian Tax Act.
