PART III
NARRATIVE

State below in reasonable detail why Forms 10-K, 20-F, 11-K, 10-Q, N-SAR, N-CSR, or the transition report or portion thereof, could not be filed within the prescribed period.

On May 5, 2005, the company filed on Form 8-K an announcement that it had recently been advised by KPMG LLP, its registered independent public accounting firm, that conflicting accounting literature exists regarding whether certain of the company's refundable entrance fee obligations should be classified as current liabilities.

The company believes that its historical practice regarding the classification of these liabilities is in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Nevertheless, the company is continuing to review the issue internally and with KPMG LLP, and has sought clarification from the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC).

The company intends to file its Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended March 31, 2005 (the "Form 10-Q") as promptly as practicable. However, the company is not able to determine the likely timing of a response from the SEC to its request for clarification regarding the classification of its entrance fee obligations. Consequently, the company is unable to file its Form 10-Q by the prescribed due date without unreasonable effort or expense, and may be unable to do so by May 16, 2005.

These forward-looking statements are subject to completion of the company's review of its accounting practices, and may be affected by certain risks and uncertainties, including without limitation the following: (i) there can be no assurance that the outcome of the SEC's review of the company's accounting practices regarding entrance fee liabilities will not require changes in the company's accounting policies and practices, (ii) there can be no assurances that additional issues will not arise during the company's accounting review or that changes to the company's current accounting practices will not be required as a result of that review, and (iii) the risk factors described in the company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2004 under the caption "Risk Factors" and in the company's other filings with the SEC. In light of the significant uncertainties inherent in the forward-looking statements included herein, the company's actual results could differ materially from such forward-looking statements. The company does not undertake any obligation to publicly release any revisions to any forward-looking statements contained herein to reflect events and circumstances occurring after the date hereof or to reflect the occurrence of unanticipated events.
