CHECK POINT SOFTWARE PROVIDES UPDATE ON SOURCEFIRE ACQUISITION

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., Feb. 13, 2006 Check Point® Software Technologies Ltd. (NASDAQ: CHKP), the world leader in securing the Internet, received notice its pending acquisition of Sourcefire®, Inc. has moved into the investigative stage with the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States (CFIUS).

In order to clear the transaction with the United States Government, Check Point submitted two regulatory applications. Check Point received U.S. anti-trust approval and was advised that CFIUS would continue reviewing the application during a 45-day investigative period.

CFIUS, an inter-agency committee, is chaired by the Secretary of Treasury. Pursuant to the Exon-Florio legislation, CFIUS reviews proposed foreign acquisitions of U.S. companies in order to protect national security while maintaining the credibility of the United States open investment policy. The Exon-Florio legislation provides for a 30-day review following notification of a potential acquisition. CFIUS has the option to extend the review period for an additional 45-day review (or investigation).

Check Point and Sourcefire are both committed to working cooperatively with the committee during the investigative period.
