BT BUYS DABS.COM

Purchase of leading internet retailer will boost online sales and service

BT announced today it has acquired dabs.com plc, one of the UK's leading internet retailers of IT and technology products.

The move is part of BT's strategy to strengthen its online sales and service capabilities, particularly for small and medium-sized business and consumer products.

To complement Dabs' broad base of IT and technology products, BT will offer its full range of products and support services online - enhancing its position as a leading retailer of converged IT and communications products and services.

Established in 1990 and employing more than 200 people, dabs.com processes about 75,000 customer orders each month and offers more than 15,000 products from leading IT manufacturers.

Bolton based Dabs has around a million consumer and business customers across the UK, as well as a small operation in France. In the year ended March 31, 2005, the company's revenues were GBP180 million with gross assets valued at GBP42million.

Ian Livingston, chief executive of BT Retail, said: "Dabs is a dotcom success story and one of the best companies in its field.

"dabs.com's outstanding expertise will boost BT's online power to sell innovative, value for money, communication and converged IT products and offer great service to a wide range of customers.

"This purchase strengthens our online IT and digital products sales and service presence for small and medium-sized businesses as well as for consumer customers."

Jonathan Wall, marketing director at dabs.com, said: "This is a very exciting time. We are delighted with this development and we're confident that this will prove to be rewarding to both our business partners and our customers.

"The combination of our expertise in online retailing together with BT's brand and product and service heritage offers tremendous opportunities."

The dabs.com business now becomes a wholly owned subsidiary of BT.

Notes to editors

About Dabs

dabs.com is one of the UK's most successful online IT retailers, with significant growth over the last five years; it represents an exclusive collective of online businesses that are both proven and profitable.

Growing from its roots 18 years ago as the traditional mail order reseller Dabs Direct, the Dabs business model has evolved significantly during recent years in line with a drive to enhance the customer's online buying experience through the exploitation of advancements in digital technology. The dabs.com web site offers around 15,000 products to its more than one million registered online customers across the UK.

Dabs has won many high profile awards for both its online retailing and business performance including Best Online Retailer in the 2005 What Laptop Awards.

About BT

BT is one of the world's leading providers of communications solutions and services operating in more than 160 Countries. Its principal activities include networked IT services, local, national and international telecommunications services, and higher-value broadband and internet products and services. BT consists principally of four lines of business: BT Global Services, Openreach, BT Retail and BT Wholesale.

In the year ended March 31, 2005, BT Group's revenue was GBP18,623 million with profit before taxation of GBP2,354 million.

British Telecommunications plc (BT) is a wholly-owned subsidiary of BT Group and encompasses virtually all businesses and assets of the BT Group. BT Group plc is listed on stock exchanges in London and New York.

BT WINS RIGHTS TO FA PREMIER LEAGUE MATCHES ON DEMAND

BT today announced it has won the rights to carry 242 'near-live' FA Premier League football matches per season. The three year deal covers the 2007-8, 2008-9 and 2009-10 seasons. BT has acquired the rights in a joint bid with BSkyB.

This means fans will, for the first time, be able to watch full Premiership matches on their televisions on a pay per view basis - without the need for an upfront television subscription. The matches will be offered via BT Vision, the next-generation TV service due to launch in Autumn 2006.

The successful bid will enable BT Vision customers to enjoy a range of Premiership matches, on demand. The matches will generally be available from 10 pm on kick-off day for a period of fifty hours allowing fans flexibility in terms of when they want to watch the game. It means that BT Vision, which already has access to content from such well known names as BBC Worldwide, Paramount, Endemol, DreamWorks, National Geographic Channel and Warner Music

Edgar Filing: BT GROUP PLC - Form 6-K

Group, also has one of the most compelling sports-entertainment offers in the UK.

Dan Marks, CEO of BT Vision, said: "We're delighted to have won this bid. This is a landmark moment for sports viewing in the UK as BT Vision customers will have great control, convenience and choice over the games they want to watch without the need for an upfront subscription. This is a great example of the added value that BT broadband delivers."
