STEPHEN HESTER TO LEAVE RBS

The Board of Directors of The Royal Bank of Scotland Group plc (RBS) today announced that Stephen Hester will be stepping down as the Group's Chief Executive later this year. The Board believes that an orderly succession process will give a new CEO time to prepare the privatisation process and to lead the bank in the years that follow. Stephen was unable to make that open-ended commitment following five years in the job already.

The search for a successor will commence immediately, led by Philip Hampton on behalf of the Board, and will consider both internal and external candidates. Stephen will continue to lead the business until December 2013 to ensure a smooth handover, unless a successor is in post before then.

Stephen was appointed to the Board in October 2008 and to the position of Group Chief Executive in November 2008. Since then he has led the rescue of RBS, its recovery plan and one of the largest and most complex company restructurings ever seen. Nearly five years into the strategic plan, RBS has made huge progress in becoming a strong bank, with balance sheet and funding transformed and the business fundamentally re-shaped. It is now beginning to prepare for possible share sales by the UK Government. Accordingly, both the Board and Stephen agreed this provided a window to begin a transition of leadership.

Stephen Hester, CEO of RBS said: "It has been nearly five years since I joined RBS after the bank was rescued by the Government. In that time we have reduced the bank's balance sheet by nearly a trillion pounds, repaid hundreds of billions of taxpayer support, and removed the imminent threat that this bank's size and complexity posed to the UK economy. All the while we supported 30 million customers every day to help them manage their finances.

"We are now in a position where the Government can begin to prepare for privatising RBS. While leading that process would be the end of an incredible chapter for me, ideally for the company it should be led by someone at the beginning of their journey. I will therefore step down at the end of this year to allow a new CEO to lead the Group in this next stage. Over the coming months I will put all my effort into completing the final recovery and continuing to build a strong customer focused culture. I thank all of the people of RBS for their support and wish them all the best for the future."

Philip Hampton, Chairman of RBS, said: "On behalf of the Board I would like to thank Stephen for his leadership and dedication over the past five years. In the midst of a major crisis, he accepted the challenge of stabilising the bank, turning it around, and putting us in a position where we can begin to plan for returning the organisation to the private sector. His achievements have been considerable.

"We will continue Stephen's work to remove the barriers to privatisation over the next year and continue to do everything possible to support the British economy. Stephen will be leaving RBS in a vastly improved position that many would have thought impossible five years ago."

At the point of Stephen's departure, in line with his contractual arrangements, he will receive payment in lieu of notice of £1.6m representing 12 months pay and benefits. He will not receive a bonus for 2013, which is also in line with contract terms.

Stephen's unvested Long Term Incentive Plan (LTIP) awards will be reduced significantly through pro rating in line with normal policy. Current expectations are that approximately 2 million shares will be available to vest after time pro rating. The awards will also be subject to published performance conditions which will be assessed at the end of the performance period in line with plan rules. At an expected value of 45% the awards would be worth around £3m at today's share price. The number of shares is capped at 65% which would be just over £4m at today's share price.
