We were able to take advantage of the unprecedented opportunities presented by the Beijing Olympic Games in the third quarter and maintain momentum throughout the fourth quarter despite a challenging economic environment. Our accomplishments in 2008 are underscored by exciting new developments in the first quarter of 2009 as several multinational and domestic brands have renewed or signed new contracts. In fact, as of February 27, 2009, 129 multinational and domestic household brands had either renewed sales contracts or signed new contracts for ad placement in 2009, demonstrating increased acceptance of our platform as well as customer satisfaction. These developments reaffirm the tremendous long-term growth potential of our business model and the industry in which we operate. We believe we have the right strategy in place to capitalize on the growth and expansion of the mobile TV industry in China, which will enable us to deliver long-term shareholder value.

Alfred Tong, VisionChina Media's chief marketing officer, said, "We strive to deliver the best possible viewing experience to the millions of commuters who watch our screens on buses and subways in China each day. We are confident that major brands, both domestic and international, will continue to increase their spending on our platform as they witness the benefits that real-time digital mobile television can offer. Our low cost per minute advertising platform provides an extremely cost-effective alternative to traditional television, as was recently documented by the second phase of a study of our industry by CTR Market Research, one of China's largest third-party market research providers.

Dina Liu, VisionChina Media's chief financial officer, added, "While the digital mobile television industry is still in its infancy in China, it is a dynamic market poised for consolidation. As the only publicly listed company operating in our competitive landscape, we are well positioned to play an active role in the industry's consolidation and create long-term shareholder value for our investors. In 2009, we will continue to focus on execution, cost control and profitability. Our talented and dedicated workforce will continue to direct their attention toward further penetrating our existing network, expanding our geographical reach to new cities, developing new platforms, increasing utilization rates and achieving fair pricing for our advertising minutes."

Other Recent Company and Industry Developments

Effective January 1, 2009, VisionChina Media added a second TV channel to its broadcast in Beijing allowing for subways and buses to air programming and advertising independently. Airing a separate broadcast on each platform allows the Company to sell bus and subway advertising minutes separately. Beijing subways have a distinct rate card and the Company has exclusive rights to 5 of Beijing's 8 subway lines. Beijing is a significant and lucrative market for VisionChina Media as subway expansion there continues at a rapid pace. By 2015, Beijing is expected to have one of the world's largest subway systems with approximately 349 miles of rail lines and capacity of over 9 million passengers daily.

In January 2009, VisionChina Media signed an agreement with Hangzhou New & Mobile Media to provide a certain amount of mobile television advertising time per day from several key industries on public buses and ferries via 5,841 screens. The move into Hangzhou signifies an important step in the Company's endeavors to capture the many untapped opportunities in Tier II cities where exposure to brand-building advertising is not yet as widespread.

In February 2009, VisionChina Media expanded network coverage to Tianjin by signing a two-year, exclusive agreement granting the Company the right to sell a minimum of 114 advertising minutes per day to national advertisers during 17 hours of daily programming. The Tianjin network currently features 2,486 screens, with 2,700 more planned by May 2009. Like Hangzhou, Tianjin is a strategically significant Tier II city due to its large population, high GDP and close proximity to Beijing.

In February 2009, Phase II of the CTR Market Research Report was delivered. The research was undertaken to measure the metrics of the digital mobile TV industry in China. Phase II of the research indicated that digital mobile TV has the ability to reach wide audiences and generate high retention rates at costs that are a fraction of those offered through advertising on traditional TV. While research is ongoing, statistics like these validate the effectiveness of the Company's television and advertising platform for advertisers.

In November 2008, VisionChina Media's board of directors approved a share repurchase program of up to $50 million by December 31, 2009. Under the share repurchase program, the Company purchased 281,400 shares in the open market during the fourth quarter of 2008 at an average price of $5.13 and total consideration of $1.4 million. The share repurchase program reflects management's unwavering confidence in the Company's growth prospects as well as the sustainability of its business model and the industry in which it operates.

Business Outlook

The Company estimates total revenues, which consist of advertising service revenues only, in the first quarter of 2009 to range from $27 million to $30 million. First quarter 2009 net income excluding share-based compensation expenses (non-GAAP) is expected to be between $7 million and $9.5 million. Margins will be negatively impacted by fixed media cost payments in the first quarter of 2009 due to three new exclusive agency agreements that the company entered into during the first quarter to secure fixed cost capacity. Excluding these incremental costs, the Company expects first quarter 2009 net income, excluding share-based compensation expenses (non-GAAP), to be between $8.7 million and $11.2 million.

The Company estimates its total revenues in the full year 2009 to range from $141 million to $157 million. Net income in the full year 2009, excluding share-based compensation expenses (non-GAAP), is expected to be between $46 million and $58 million.

The Company bases these estimates on a foreign exchange rate of RMB6.8470 per US$1.00.

The Company noted that its guidance is based on its current network of 18 cities that, as of release date, have already been secured by contract. If and when more cities are added, either organically or through M&A activity, it will impact the management's forecast.
