Item 1.01. Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement.

On September 30, 2011, The Fresh Market, Inc. (the Company ) entered into a binding agreement in principle to amend its existing Supply and Service Agreement with Burris Logistics ( Burris ) pursuant to which Burris provides inventory management, warehousing and transportation services to the Company (the Existing Agreement ). The agreement in principle provides that the term of the Existing Agreement, which otherwise would have expired by its terms on or around February 5, 2012, will be extended through February 5, 2016. Burris will continue to perform the inventory management, warehousing and transportation services for the Company that it has performed under the Existing Agreement. The agreement in principle also provides that Burris may begin to utilize a second distribution center in the mid-Atlantic region in 2012 to service the Company. In addition, the agreement in principle addresses certain pricing and other business terms which were omitted from previous public filings of the Existing Agreement pursuant to a Confidential Treatment Request by the Company. The parties expect to further set forth the agreement in principle in a detailed amendment to the Existing Agreement (the Amendment ) as promptly as reasonably practicable. The parties expect that the Amendment will contain additional administrative detail related to the business terms set forth in the agreement in principle. If an Amendment has not been entered into prior to the date on which the Existing Agreement would have otherwise expired by its terms, the agreement in principle will serve to amend the Existing Agreement as and to the extent set forth in the agreement in principle.
