Corvex and Related Respond to Commonwealth REIT's Misleading Statements Regarding Effects of Consent Solicitation on Debt Obligations

Commit To Offer to Buy 51% of Obligations Under Commonwealth's Revolving Credit Agreement and Term Loan if Entire Board is Removed To Avoid Any Possibility of Debt Acceleration

NEW YORK, June 19, 2013 Corvex Management LP (Corvex) and Related Fund Management, LLC (Related), whose separately managed investment funds collectively own approximately 9.6% of the outstanding common shares of Commonwealth REIT (NYSE:CWH), today issued the following statement regarding misleading statements made by Commonwealth and its representatives regarding the effects of the removal of the entire Board of trustees on Commonwealth's outstanding debt obligations:

As we have previously disclosed, a successful removal of the entire Commonwealth Board, which is the only path to effect meaningful change, will constitute a change of control under Commonwealth's revolving credit agreement and term loan agreement. However, such change of control will not be an event of default that automatically accelerates the payment of the $630 million in debt outstanding under both facilities. In fact, for an acceleration to occur, the holders of more than 50% of the outstanding obligations under the respective facility would have to affirmatively elect to accelerate repayment of the obligations. We note that the obligations are held by a broad group of sophisticated financial institutions that in our view would have absolutely no incentive to accelerate the payment of outstanding obligations in light of Commonwealth's continuing solvency and low credit risk.

We would have expected that Commonwealth's Board, in accordance with its fiduciary duties, engage with us and Commonwealth's lenders in a discussion to secure appropriate advance waivers or appropriate refinancing, in the event shareholders elect to remove the entire Board of trustees. But to the contrary, it has come to our attention that Commonwealth's management and their advisors are using the poison puts that they themselves included in their credit documents as the centerpiece of a scare tactic campaign to intimidate shareholders into not supporting our consent solicitation out of fear that doing so could result in the acceleration of Commonwealth's obligations under their revolver and term loan agreement. This desperate rhetoric may be the result of the broad support our consent solicitation is receiving from shareholders. Commonwealth's argument boils down to the proposition that, following removal of the board, RMR and the remaining Commonwealth officers would purposely cause the acceleration of the company's outstanding obligations rather than take a replacement credit facility made available to Commonwealth until such a new board of trustees is duly elected by shareholders. The proposition is absurd, and a clear indication of the extent to which the Portnoys and the current Board will go to entrench themselves regardless of the economic consequences to shareholders.

In order to put an end to Commonwealth's scare tactic campaign and alleviate any shareholder concern we hereby commit that, in the event our consent solicitation is successful and shareholders remove the entire board of trustees, Corvex and Related will immediately offer to buy 51% of the outstanding debt under each of Commonwealth's revolving credit agreement and term loan at par value, so that no acceleration of such loans will occur. Since no such acceleration will occur, cross-acceleration provisions included in other Commonwealth debt obligations will not be triggered and should be of no concern to shareholders.

We continue to believe that the removal of the entire Board is the only way to effect meaningful change, a position shared by both ISS and Glass Lewis, and we are gratified by the show of support from both large and retail investors. We hope that in light of the foregoing commitment, Commonwealth's trustees will now cease threatening their own shareholders.
