On March 3, 2017, NXP Semiconductors N.V. (the Company), filed its Annual Report on Form 20-F with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). Previously on February 2, 2017, the Company furnished to the SEC on Form 6-K a press release reporting its unaudited fourth quarter and full-year 2016 results. Subsequently, on February 6, 2017, the Company completed the previously announced disposition of its Standard Products business (the SP disposition). Regarding the recognition of tax benefits related to the Company's financial statements as of December 31, 2016, the Company is required under applicable accounting standards to consider all available evidence, including events that occur subsequent to year end but prior to the issuance of the associated financial statements. The completion of the SP disposition enabled the Company to conclude that the deferred tax asset valuation allowance should be reduced as of December 31, 2016 (resulting in the recognition of an additional tax benefit of $392 million in the Company's consolidated statement of operations), as there was now an objectively verifiable source of income against which tax losses can be utilized. Accordingly, the full-year 2016 results presented in the Annual Report on Form 20-F update the financial results previously reported in the February 2, 2017 press release for the recognition of this additional tax benefit.
