Economic conditions that negatively affect housing prices and the job market that have resulted, and may continue to result, in a deterioration in credit quality of the Company's loan portfolio.

Access to market-based liquidity sources that may be negatively impacted if market conditions persist or if further ratings downgrades occur and could lead to increased funding costs and reduced gain on sale.

The need to raise additional capital due to significant additional losses which could have a dilutive effect on existing shareholders and could affect the ability to pay dividends.

Changes in interest rates.

Features of certain of the Company's loan products that may result in increased credit risk.

Estimates used by the Company to determine the fair value of certain of our assets that may prove to be imprecise and result in significant changes in valuation.

Risks related to the Company's credit card operations that could adversely affect the credit card portfolio and our ability to continue growing the credit card business.

Operational risk which may result in incurring financial and reputational losses.

Failure to comply with laws and regulations.

Changes in the regulation of financial services companies, housing government-sponsored enterprises and credit card lenders.

General business, economic and market conditions and continued deterioration in these conditions.

Damage to the Company's professional reputation and business as a result of allegations and negative public opinion as well as pending and threatened litigation.

Significant competition from banking and nonbanking companies.

There are other factors not described in the Company's 2007 Form 10-K which are beyond the Company's ability to anticipate or control that could cause results to differ.
