ITEM 8.01 OTHER EVENTS.

On November 29, 2007, the Administrative Law Judge (the "ALJ") in the Wisconsin Pollution Discharge Elimination System ("WPDES") permit contested case proceeding determined that the two additional coal units that are part of the Oak Creek expansion are new facilities under Section 316(b) of the Clean Water Act. The ALJ did not vacate the WPDES permit or any other permit necessary to continue construction of the two additional coal units, pointing out that, based upon the present record, the water intake system currently under construction as part of the Oak Creek expansion may be permissible under the standards that apply to new facilities.

The ALJ remanded the WPDES permit to the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (the "WDNR") and directed the WDNR to reissue or modify the permit to reflect "best technology available" to comply with the standards applicable to new facilities under Wisconsin state law. As part of the decision, the ALJ restated his prior opinion that the water intake system currently under construction may not be operated until the Wisconsin Division of Hearings and Appeals hears any challenge to a reissued or modified permit.

We believe that there are alternatives under the United States Environmental Protection Agency's (the "EPA") rule for new facilities which would permit the use of the once-through cooling system rather than the use of cooling towers. Within the next several weeks, we intend to submit additional information to the WDNR supporting our request for approval of the once-through cooling system under this rule, and anticipate the WDNR will complete the WPDES permit modification process in the first half of 2008. At this time, we cannot predict with certainty what the WDNR's decision will be.

While the process for modifying the WPDES permit proceeds, we will continue construction of the additional coal units on the current schedule.

In January 2007, the Federal Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit issued a decision concerning the EPA's Section 316(b) Phase II rule for cooling water intake systems for existing facilities. The Second Circuit found certain portions of the Phase II rule impermissible and remanded several parts of it to the EPA for further consideration or potential additional rulemaking. In March 2007, the Dane County Circuit Court affirmed in part an earlier decision by the ALJ upholding the WDNR's issuance of the WPDES permit. The Court also remanded certain aspects of the decision for further consideration based on the January 2007 Second Circuit decision. In July 2007, the EPA formally suspended the Phase II rule in its entirety and directed states to use their "best professional judgment" in evaluating intake systems. We then requested the WDNR to modify the WPDES permit.
