Edgar Filing: BLUE HOLDINGS, INC. - Form 8-K

The Factoring Agreements originally provided for the purchase of accounts receivable for customers approved by FTC in amounts approved by FTC, without recourse to the Factoring Parties for insolvency or nonpayment for financial inability to pay. FTC would remit the net amount of accounts purchased by FTC less a reserve of 15% of all unpaid accounts purchased by FTC and 100% of disputed accounts or accounts a Factoring Party is otherwise obligated to repurchase. FTC may require the Factoring Parties to repurchase receivables subject to any claim or dispute based on alleged shortage, defects, noncompliance or failure to deliver, set-off or any other reason other than the financial inability of such customer to pay or the customer's insolvency.

As security for its obligations under the applicable Factoring Agreement and for the prompt repayment of any indebtedness to FTC, each Factoring Party pledged, assigned and granted to FTC a security interest, subject to no encumbrance, in all of such party's right, title and interest in and to all presently existing and future accounts, merchandise, inventory, goods, general intangibles, balances, reserves, deposits, debts or any other amounts or obligations of FTC owing to the applicable Factoring Party, equipment, motor vehicles, and all proceeds and products of each of the foregoing.

The Factoring Agreements originally had a term of 1 year and, along with other termination provisions, stated that the Factoring Party could terminate the applicable Factoring Agreement at any time upon at least 60 days prior written notice. The Factoring Agreements further provided that FTC could terminate a Factoring Agreement for any reason at any time upon 60 days prior written notice.

Each Factoring Party originally agreed to pay FTC a commission in an amount equal to eight tenths of one percent (0.80%) of the net amount of receivables with terms not exceeding 90 days, plus one quarter of one percent (0.25%) of such net amount for each 30 days the selling terms exceed 90 days, but in no event less than $3.00 per invoice. Interest at the prime rate plus 1% is charged on the average net daily balance of advances made to each Factoring Party, and is payable monthly on the last day of each calendar month.

On September 1, 2005, the Registrant entered into Amendment No. 1 to the Blue Holdings Factoring Agreement and Antik entered into Amendment No. 1 to the Antik Factoring Agreement. Each amendment revised Section 2 Payment for Accounts of each Factoring Agreement to provide that outstanding factoring advances under the Factoring Agreement could not exceed an amount equal to (i) the up to 90% of the purchase price of all accounts purchased from a Factoring Party less (ii) such reserves as FTC in its sole discretion elected to establish; revised Section 3 Reserve Requirement of each Factoring Agreement to provide for a reserve of 10% of all unpaid accounts purchased by FTC and 100% of disputed accounts or accounts a Factoring Party is otherwise obligated to repurchase; and revised Section 17 Termination of each Factoring Agreement to provide that the such factoring agreement shall be effective until July 24, 2006 and shall continue in force and effect thereafter unless terminated by either party on or after July 24, 2006 pursuant to 120 days prior written notice.
