The following information was issued as a Company announcement in London, England and is furnished pursuant to General Instruction B to the General Instructions to Form 6-K:

RBS announces sale of RBS Aviation Capital to a consortium of Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group for $7.3bn, (£4.7bn)

The Royal Bank of Scotland Group plc ("RBS") today announces that it has agreed to sell RBS Aviation Capital to Sumitomo Mitsui Banking Corporation ("SMBC"), acting on behalf of a consortium comprising its parent, Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group, and Sumitomo Corporation (the "Consortium").

As a result of the sale, the Consortium will acquire RBS Aviation Capital for an approximate consideration of $7.3bn, (£4.7bn), subject to certain post closing adjustments. Future order commitments of $3.7bn, (£2.4bn) will transfer with the business. The risk weighted assets associated with the Aviation Capital business are $2.5bn, (£1.6bn). It is expected that the sale will complete before the end of Q3 2012.

The proceeds from the transaction will further strengthen the Core Tier 1 capital position of the Group and will be used to reduce wholesale funding requirements and fund ongoing lending. The disposal is expected to reduce Non-Core Division's third party assets by $7.0bn, (£4.5bn) on completion.

Commenting on the transaction, RBS Group Finance Director, Bruce Van Saun said, "Reaching agreement on a deal of this scale in such a volatile market is a significant success for our Non-Core Division and a credit to SMBC. This transaction further evidences our progress in reducing our Non-Core portfolio and returning the Group to a position of strength."

The Business

RBS Aviation Capital is a fully integrated aircraft leasing company which was established in 2001 and through organic growth has become the world's fourth largest aircraft lessor by owned and managed fleet value.

The business, which has been profitable since inception, is headquartered in Dublin, Ireland and employs 69 specialists based in Dublin and eight other locations in Europe, US and Asia. It currently owns 206 aircraft and has commitments to purchase a further 87 by 2015.

The sale of RBS Aviation Capital involves the disposal of the entire issued share capital of RBS Aerospace Limited, RBS Aerospace (UK) Limited and RBS Australia Leasing Pty Limited together with other assets comprising the RBS Aviation Capital operating lease business.

As of 30 June 2011, RBS Aviation Capital had gross assets of $7.2bn, (£4.6bn), and generated a profit (unaudited) of $89m, (£58m) in the six month period ended on that date.

Reason for the sale

RBS Aviation Capital was designated part of Non-Core in February 2009 following the Group's Strategic Review, which called for de-leveraging to strengthen the Group's balance sheet, along with increased business focus.

The Transaction

The transaction is conditional upon receipt of antitrust and regulatory approvals. It is also subject to customary termination provisions and may also be terminated by either party at any time after 14 September 2012 if the conditions precedent have not been satisfied on or by that date.

Consideration

The total consideration payable to RBS, before the assumption of external indebtedness and working capital liabilities, is expected to be approximately $7.3bn, (£4.7bn). It is payable in cash on completion of the relevant transfer agreements, subject to certain post closing adjustments.

Employees and Management

The management team and staff of RBS Aviation Capital are highly regarded in the industry and will remain with the business. The management team will continue to manage the RBS Aviation Capital business going forward providing continuity for the staff and importantly its customers and suppliers.
