Item 8.01 Other Events.

On September 22, 2005, at the Banc of America 35th Annual Investment Conference, Ivan G. Seidenberg, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Verizon Communications Inc. (Verizon), gave a presentation concerning industry issues and opportunities, and Verizon's growth and other initiatives. Mr. Seidenberg stated that Verizon expects full-year 2005 consolidated operating revenues to increase in the range of 5 to 6 percent, compared with 2004 results. Verizon had not previously issued revenue guidance for this year. He also reiterated current capital spending guidance for 2005. In July, the company announced that it anticipated 2005 capital spending would increase approximately 15 percent over 2004 expenditures of $13.3 billion. Verizon expects that the increase in capital spending in 2006, excluding post-merger MCI spending, will be significantly less than the increase in 2005. Assuming that level of capital spending in 2006 and subject to the company's continual assessment of its capital structure, Verizon's debt levels, excluding post-merger MCI debt, should continue to improve.

Mr. Seidenberg reviewed several elements of a broad business model of the company's broadband fiber-to-the-premises initiative, known as FiOS. The company estimates that by 2009 its broadband data product will achieve a market penetration rate of approximately 30% and its broadband video penetration rate will be approximately 20% to 25%. Mr. Seidenberg also stated that the company expects the deployment of its fiber-to-the-premises network to result in long-term productivity savings approaching 40% or better.

NOTE: This report contains statements about expected future events and financial results that are forward-looking and subject to risks and uncertainties. For those statements, we claim the protection of the safe harbor for forward-looking statements contained in the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. The following important factors could affect future results and could cause those results to differ materially from those expressed in the forward-looking statements: materially adverse changes in economic and industry conditions and labor matters, including workforce levels and labor negotiations, and any resulting financial and/or operational impact, in the markets served by us or by companies in which we have substantial investments; material changes in available technology; technology substitution; an adverse change in the ratings afforded our debt securities by nationally accredited ratings organizations; the final results of federal and state regulatory proceedings concerning our provision of retail and wholesale services and judicial review of those results; the effects of competition in our markets; the timing, scope and financial impacts of our deployment of fiber-to-the-premises broadband technology; the ability of Verizon Wireless to continue to obtain sufficient spectrum resources; changes in our accounting assumptions that regulatory agencies, including the SEC, may require or that result from changes in the accounting rules or their application, which could result in an impact on earnings; a significant change in the timing of, or the imposition of any government conditions to, the closing of our business combination transaction with MCI, Inc., if consummated; actual and contingent liabilities in connection with the MCI transaction; and the extent and timing of our ability to obtain revenue enhancements and cost savings following the MCI transaction.
