The following is a transcript of Bob Kelly's webcast transmitted to Mellon Financial Corporation's employees on January 2, 2007.

Hi, I'm Bob Kelly. Happy New Year! I hope you enjoyed a wonderful holiday season with your family and friends.

I wanted to take a few moments to share with you some reflections on the past year, as well as my excitement about the opportunities ahead for all of us in 2007.

First, looking back, 2006 was a truly great year.

On a personal level, I was excited to join Mellon in February. In the past 11 months, I've had the opportunity to meet many of you. And I continue to be impressed by your enthusiasm, dedication to Mellon's Shared Values and commitment to our businesses.

Working together, we reached a lot of new milestones in 2006.

Our assets under management and assets under custody reached new record levels. In fact, they grew faster than most of our competitors.

We continued to win customer service awards around the world.

Revenues and earnings grew at double-digit levels.

We raised our dividend again.

Our stock price went up over 20 percent this year – our best result in almost a decade.

In other words, our customers and shareholders are telling us that we have great people, and we're doing a terrific job for them. These were all significant accomplishments for our company.

And if you thought 2006 was exciting, I can assure you that 2007 promises to hold even greater opportunities.

As you know, we recently announced Mellon's agreement to merge with The Bank of New York. We expect to complete that merger in July 2007.

The new company, which will be called The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation, will be the undisputed global leader in asset servicing. It will have over $16 trillion in assets under custody and administration. We will also rank among the top 10 asset managers globally, with over $1 trillion in assets under management. We will also be one of the top 10 wealth managers in the United States. And we'll also become a global leader in the Payments business.

The new company will offer the best of what Mellon and The Bank of New York have to offer – great people, great products and great service.

While a core integration team focuses on thoughtfully and deliberately merging our companies, I ask that you continue to focus on what you do best – providing clients with the excellent service that is a recognized hallmark of Mellon's approach to doing business.

I look forward to sharing news and information about the merger and other business successes through webcasts, e-mails, town hall meetings and OneWeb, our intranet. I will also continue to answer your questions. Don't hesitate to send an e-mail to the Ask Bob e-mail account.

The new year holds tremendous growth opportunities as we work toward creating a new global financial services leader, reaching a broader client base with expanded offerings and capabilities.

I hope you're as excited as I am about what we're going to accomplish in 2007 and beyond.

Best wishes for a happy and healthy New Year.
