Dear AB Colleague:

I am writing to introduce myself and to share my enthusiasm about yesterday's announcement that Applied Biosystems and Invitrogen will combine to create a global leader in biotechnology reagents and systems, with significant commercial, operational and technical scale, making our combined company uniquely positioned to accelerate and drive new discoveries and customer success.

As CEO of Invitrogen, I speak on behalf of our entire company about our excitement regarding this strategic event. The combination of AB and Invitrogen will allow us to have approximately 3,000 sales and service employees worldwide and will position us to drive growth for all our stakeholders including AB and Invitrogen employees.

We at Invitrogen have tremendous respect for AB, especially for your leadership, strong brand and reputation for superior service. In fact, the combined company will be called Applied Biosystems, partly in recognition of its central enabling role in advancing the life sciences over the last quarter century. Invitrogen shares many of these same strengths and we believe that by combining our companies, our customers will benefit from superior customer service and innovative new products. I think you will agree that our companies are an ideal strategic match.

In addition to combining the industry's premier consumables provider with the industry's premier systems provider, we believe that we can also accelerate growth for both companies by competing in several rapidly growing markets, such as next generation sequencing, cell biology, applied markets and emerging geographies. Together we will position our new company for continued growth and financial achievement and I look forward to working together with you on this exciting new stage of our evolution.

I am sure Mark Stevenson told you that until the transaction closes, which is targeted to be in the fall of 2008, AB and Invitrogen will operate in a business-as-usual mode to ensure continued execution of both Invitrogen's and AB's plans. Mark and I are committed to keeping the employees of both companies informed as the transaction moves toward closing. For now, we ask all employees to remain focused on providing the exceptional service our customers have grown to expect from us.

In the coming weeks and months, I and others here at Invitrogen will be traveling to many AB and Invitrogen locations to discuss the future of our combined company. We look forward to meeting with you then. In the interim, I want to thank you for your dedication and hard work.

Sincerely,

Gregory T. Lucier

Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Invitrogen
