1. Results of Operations and Financial Condition

(1) Analysis of results of operations

(Results of operations for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2018)

An overview of the financial and economic environment in fiscal year 2017 reveals the global economy was exposed to political and geopolitical risks, such as a change in US policy under a new administration, national elections in major European countries and a rise in tensions in the Middle East and surrounding North Korea. Despite this, the global economy continued to recover and grow with comparative stability. In the US, an improvement in the labor market, a rise in wages and a recovery of corporations' production activities allowed its self-sustained growth to continue. The European economies remained solid, supported by a strong labor market, increased wages and low interest rates, despite underlying uncertainty about the UK's decision to leave the EU. In addition, it appears that the economies of ASEAN (Association of Southeast Asian Nations) and NIEs (Newly Industrialized Economies) remained robust, even China's, which has been experiencing downward pressure from structural adjustments. A recovery of exports, owing to growth in developed economies, and strong demand for infrastructure provided support for Asian economies. Meanwhile, the Japanese economy remained unshaken, despite movements in the political sphere, such as elections for the Tokyo Metropolitan Assembly and the House of Representatives. It continued to expand gradually throughout the fiscal year, becoming the second-longest post-war period of economic growth, surpassing the Izanagi Boom. In the corporate sector, capital expenditure maintained its strong growth due to a high level of corporate profits and a recovery of production, which was aided by completion of inventory adjustments. In the household sector, private consumption remained solid on the back of a favorable labor market and a rise in wages, supported by corporations' strong hiring appetite. In addition, implementation of large-scale economic policies by the government contributed to economic growth throughout the first half of the fiscal year.

Turning our attention to the financial situation, the US dollar-to-Japanese yen exchange rate remained relatively unchanged and stock prices followed an upward trend, supported by a recovery in the global economy until the third quarter. However, in the fourth quarter, concerns about inflation in the US came to the fore and uncertainty about its trade policies rose, leading to appreciation of the Japanese yen and a downward correction of stock prices. In June and December 2017 and March 2018, the US Federal Reserve raised interest rates, and in April 2017 and January 2018, the European Central Bank reduced the size of its asset purchases. On the other hand, the Bank of Japan maintained its Quantitative and Qualitative Monetary Easing with Yield Curve Control, and long-term interest rates remained low.

Under such business environment, consolidated gross profits for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2018 decreased 157.5 billion yen from the previous fiscal year to 3,854.2 billion yen. This was mainly due to a decrease in net interest income from domestic loans and deposits as well as from bond portfolios and a decrease of net gains on debt securities, while net interest income from overseas loans and deposits remained steadily. General and administrative (G&A) expenses for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2018 increased 27.8 billion yen from the previous fiscal year to 2,621.4 billion yen, reflecting higher expenses in overseas. As a result, net operating profits decreased 185.4 billion yen from the previous fiscal year to 1,232.8 billion yen.

Total credit costs for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2018 decreased 109.2 billion yen from the previous fiscal year, mainly due to a decrease in provision for allowance for credit losses. Net gains on equity securities increased 8.2 billion yen from the previous fiscal year, driven by a progress in sales of equity holdings. Other non-recurring losses decreased 171.1 billion yen from the previous fiscal year, mostly due to an elimination of provision for repayment of excess interest of credit card/loan businesses which was occurred in the previous fiscal year.

As a result, ordinary profits for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2018 were 1,462.4 billion yen, an increase of 101.6 billion yen from the previous fiscal year, and profits attributable to owners of parent for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2018 was 989.6 billion yen, an increase of 63.2 billion yen from the previous fiscal year.

(2) Analysis of financial condition

Total assets as of March 31, 2018 increased 3,639.9 billion yen from March 31, 2017 to 306,937.4 billion yen, and total net assets as of March 31, 2018 increased 636.6 billion yen from March 31, 2017 to 17,295.0 billion yen. The increase in total net assets was mainly due to increases in retained earnings and net unrealized gains on available-for-sale securities.

With regard to major items of assets, loans and bills discounted as of March 31, 2018 decreased 914.2 billion yen from March 31, 2017 to 108,090.9 billion yen and securities as of March 31, 2018 decreased 172.7 billion yen from March 31, 2017 to 59,266.1 billion yen. With regard to major items of liabilities, deposits as of March 31, 2018 increased 6,582.0 billion yen from March 31, 2017 to 177,312.3 billion yen.
