ENB EEQ Transaction FAQ FINAL 9/17/18

TO BE POSTED IN CONJUNCTION WITH DEAL ANNOUNCEMENT

1. Where can I find additional information about the transaction?

<https://www.enbridgemanagement.com/Media-Center/News.aspx?queryYear=2018&ReleaseId=123002>

2. When is the transaction expected to close?

The transaction is targeted to close late in the fourth quarter 2018.

3. Will Enbridge personnel be able to help with my tax-related questions?

If you have tax related questions, please contact a tax advisor. Enbridge's investor relations department is not staffed by tax personnel and Enbridge personnel do not provide tax advice.

4. What are the expected US federal income tax consequences to the EEQ shareholders resulting from the transaction and how will the transaction affect their taxes?

The transaction should not be a taxable transaction for EEQ shareholders (other than EEQ shareholders that own, directly or constructively, 5% or more of EEQ's common stock) except for, in the case of U.S. holders, any gain or loss that may result from the receipt by such U.S. holders of cash in lieu of a fractional share of ENB common stock.

5. What consideration did I receive for my EEQ shares?

In general, holders of EEQ shares will receive 0.3350 shares of ENB common stock for each EEQ share.

No fractional Enbridge shares will be issued in the transaction. EEQ shareholders will be paid cash in lieu of fractional shares.

- 6. With the PIK distribution for EEQ, I have been continuously accumulating a balance of fractional shares (CUSIP CKC50X106), are these included as a portion of my share count and will they be exchanged as well?

All fractional shares of EEQ, including those issued with respect to the EEQ PIK distribution, will be exchanged in connection with the transaction. No fractional Enbridge shares will be issued in the transaction. EEQ shareholders will be paid cash in lieu of fractional shares.

- 7. Can I access the Registration Statement, Proxy Statement/ Prospectus and other documents filed with the SEC by Enbridge online?

Enbridge will file with the SEC a registration statement on Form S-4, which will include a proxy statement for EEQ and any other documents in connection with the transaction. Those materials, when filed with the SEC, will be available online at www.sec.gov.

- 8. Will I receive Enbridge dividends after the transaction?

Declaration of dividends is subject to the discretion of the Enbridge Board of Directors. Enbridge expects that the transaction will result in distributable cash flow to support annual dividend growth of 10% through 2020 with enhanced distributable cash flow coverage relative to the stand-alone coverage of EEQ.

- 9. What type of dividend does ENB pay?

ENB is classified as a corporation for U.S. federal income tax purposes. A distribution of cash by ENB to a U.S. stockholder will generally be included in such U.S. stockholder's income as ordinary dividend income to the extent of ENB's current and accumulated earnings and profits as determined under U.S. federal income tax principles. Accordingly, you should expect to generally treat distributions made by Enbridge as ordinary dividend income. The amount of the dividend distribution that each ENB stockholder must include in their income as a U.S. stockholder will be the U.S. dollar value of the Canadian dollar payments made, determined at the spot Canadian dollar/U.S. dollar rate on the date the dividend distribution is includible in such stockholder's income, regardless of whether the payment is in fact converted into U.S. dollars. Please contact a tax advisor regarding specific tax related questions.

Enbridge should not be considered a passive foreign investment company (PFIC) for the purposes of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code.

ENB is considered to be a qualified foreign corporation and the dividends paid on its common shares are considered to be qualified dividends as those terms are defined in the U.S. Internal Revenue Code. If you have any questions regarding the taxation of Canadian dividends in your local jurisdiction, please contact your local tax advisor.

10. How will any Enbridge dividends be reported?

Enbridge stockholders will receive an annual IRS Form 1099-DIV reflecting their dividend income.

Non-Resident holders (any holder residing outside of Canada) will also receive an NR4 tax form which shows the non-resident tax that was deducted where applicable.

11. Is Enbridge's dividend subject to withholding taxes?

Yes. Withholding taxes apply to dividends paid to U.S. shareholders but may be limited to 15% under the applicable U.S. Canadian tax treaty. Subject to certain limitations, Canadian tax withheld may be deductible or creditable against your U.S. federal income tax liability. The rules governing the foreign tax credit are complex and involve the application of rules that depend upon a U.S. holder's particular circumstances. Accordingly, U.S. holders should consult their tax advisors regarding the availability of the foreign tax credit under their particular circumstances.

Please contact your account administrator or broker for additional information and forms related to filing for exemption from Canadian withholding taxes for U.S. residents.

12. As an EEQ shareholder I currently receive dividends in U.S. dollars will my new Enbridge dividends continue to be paid in U.S. dollars?

Enbridge declares its dividend in Canadian dollars. Enbridge common shares trading on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) and the Toronto Stock Exchange (TSX) will pay dividends in Canadian dollars. However, Enbridge delivers payment to U.S. holders of Enbridge common shares in U.S. dollars. Fluctuations in the Canadian dollar/U.S. dollar exchange rate may impact the value of any dividend payments received by U.S. holders of Enbridge common shares.

13. Upon what will EEQ shareholders be voting?

EEQ shareholders will be voting on approval of the EEQ transaction

Separately, under EEQ and EEP's governing documents, EEQ shareholders are required to vote on approval of the EEP merger. EEQ will then vote its I-Units in EEP in favor or against the EEP merger in the proportion that EEQ shareholders voted for or against the EEP merger.

14. How do I vote my EEQ shares in favor or against this transaction or the EEP transaction?

Voting instructions will be provided in the definitive proxy statement filed by EEQ with the SEC in connection with the transaction. When filed with the SEC, the definitive proxy statement will be available online at www.sec.gov.

15. As an EEQ shareholder, is there anything I need to do or forms that I will need to complete in order to have my shares successfully exchanged in accordance with the offer terms?

Shares held in book entry form will convert automatically and no shareholder action is required.

Shareholders of certificated shares will receive a letter of transmittal following the transaction closing which will provide instructions on how to surrender and exchange their shares.
