On August 28, 2017, SM Energy Company (the “Company”) issued the following statement concerning the impact of Hurricane Harvey on the Company’s operations:

“Our thoughts and prayers are with our fellow employees and their families in the Houston area and everyone in the state of Texas who are experiencing the tragic and catastrophic rainfall and flooding associated with Hurricane Harvey. The safety of our personnel is our highest priority at this time. We currently expect our Houston office to be closed for at least several days, because we have asked all of our Houston staff to focus their efforts on caring for their homes and loved ones.

Our operations are not in flooded areas and have not been significantly affected by the storm. We are experiencing temporary curtailments of some of our production due to the impact of the storm on third-party, downstream infrastructure. It is too early to quantify any effect curtailments will have on our production as the storm continues to move through the state.”
