The information contained in Exhibit 99 shall not be deemed filed for purposes of Section 18 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the Exchange Act), or incorporated by reference in any filing under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or the Exchange Act, except as shall be expressly set forth by specific reference in such filing.

EBITDA is defined as earnings attributable to the Company before interest income (expense), provision for income taxes and depreciation and amortization. The Company believes EBITDA is useful to its management and investors in evaluating its operating performance because it is one of the primary measures used by the Company to evaluate the economic productivity of its operations, including its ability to obtain and maintain its customers, its ability to operate its business effectively, the efficiency of its employees and the profitability associated with their performance; it also helps the Company's management and investors to meaningfully evaluate and compare the results of its operations from period to period on a consistent basis by removing the impact of its financing transactions and the depreciation and amortization impact of capital investments from its operating results. In addition, the Company's management uses EBITDA in presentations to the Company's board of directors to enable it to have the same measurement of operating performance used by management and for planning purposes, including the preparation of the Company's annual operating budget. The Company also believes that EBITDA less stock-based compensation expense for continued and discontinued operations, noncontrolling interests and pre-control earnings of consolidated subsidiary and impairment charge (Adjusted EBITDA), is useful to investors to evaluate the Company's core operating results and financial performance and its capacity to fund capital expenditures, because it excludes items that are significant non-cash expenses reflected in the condensed consolidated statements of operations. EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA are not performance measures calculated in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States, or GAAP. While the Company considers EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA to be important measures of operating performance, they should be considered in addition to, and not as a substitute for, or superior to, net loss or other measures of financial performance prepared in accordance with GAAP and may be different than EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA measures presented by other companies.
