June 30, 2017 (unaudited)

Dear Shareholder:

The first six months of 2017 were outstanding for the suite of VanEck Vectors Country/Regional ETFs. Only one fund, VanEck Vectors Russia ETF (NYSE Arca: RSX) failed to provide a positive return for the period. Particularly satisfying was to see both our China ETFs back in the black. VanEck Vectors ChinaAMC CSI 300 ETF (NYSE Arca: PEK) and VanEck Vectors ChinaAMC SME-ChiNext ETF (NYSE Arca: CNXT) posted returns of 14.83%* and 7.36%,* respectively.

China is an important part of the world economy and we believe the country continues to offer interesting investment opportunities. The good news at the end of the first half was the decision by MSCI starting in June 2018 to include 222 China A-share stocks in its MSCI Emerging Markets Index¹ and other indices.

The weights may initially be low, but they are a beginning. At the end of June 2017, based on MSCI's estimates (5% Inclusion Factor²), the pro forma weights of China A-shares will be 0.73% of MSCI Emerging Markets Index, 0.83% of MSCI AC Asia ex Japan Index,³ and 0.1% of MSCI ACWI Index.⁴ In an indication of what this may mean, even at these low levels, Goldman Sachs estimated that the inclusion is expected to trigger about US$12 billion of net buying from emerging markets mandates.

We believe that VanEck Vectors ChinaAMC CSI 300 ETF may be an excellent way not only to capture this thematic opportunity, but also access the stocks eventually to be included by MSCI.

A High Correlation between the CSI 300 Index and the Proposed MSCI Constituents

Of the proposed 222 MSCI constituents, 199 are CSI 300 Index⁵ constituents. Those overlapping constituents weight approximately 80% in the CSI 300 Index and approximately 95% in MSCI.

Based on a static simulated list of June 19, 2017 released by MSCI, the one year performance correlation between the simulated list and the CSI 300 Index is as high as 0.99.

Proposed MSCI Constituents are Highly Similar to the CSI 300 Index in Terms of Sector Allocation

	GICS Sector Name	Proposed MSCI Constituents	CSI 300 Index

Management Discussion (unaudited)

All except one fund in the suite of VanEck Vectors Country/Regional ETFs posted positive returns during the six month period ending June 30, 2017. The top two performing funds produced solid performance: VanEck Vectors India Small-Cap ETF (NYSE Arca: SCIF) (+36.83%) and VanEck Vectors Poland ETF (NYSE Arca: PLND) (+36.81%).

The two bottom performing funds were both Russia-focused: VanEck Vectors Russia ETF (NYSE Arca: RSX) (-9.60%) and VanEck Vectors Russia Small-Cap ETF (NYSE Arca: RSXJ) (+3.17%).

Country/Regional Overviews

Africa

The financial sector, followed by the materials sector, were the two greatest contributors to the performance of the Fund (+7.07%) for the six month period. As a consequence of the fall in crude oil prices in the period under review, the energy sector was the largest detractor from performance. Midcap companies contributed the most to performance. Geographically, Canadian and U.K. gold mining companies operating in Africa, a South African media company, and Egyptian financial companies were among the most significant contributors to positive performance. Some companies outside Africa, including companies domiciled in Indonesia, the Netherlands, Switzerland, and the U.K., were detractors from performance. Additionally, the depreciation of the Nigerian naira against the U.S. dollar, coupled with Nigerian capital controls experienced earlier in the period that delayed the Fund's ability to repatriate its Nigerian naira, had a negative impact on performance.

Brazil

Despite both the economic and political challenges Brazil continues to face, the first six months of 2017 were an excellent period, bringing with it a Fund return of 21.24%. On the economic front, the first three months of the year were notable for the fact that, after eight consecutive quarters of contraction, the economy expanded by 1%.¹ This was the first expansion after one of the worst recessions the country has ever experienced. The boost to the economy came from a smaller drag from consumer spending and a jump in exports. However investment continued to contract and public spending fell.² On the political front, serious challenges remain and the position of President Temer could hardly be described as secure. In the last week of June, Brazil's top prosecutor indicted the president, accusing him of taking bribes from JBS, the largest meatpacker in the world.³ Consequently, increasing doubt surrounds the prospect of success for the various reform measures, in particular those involving social security, he and his administration have planned.

Perhaps continuing to anticipate a brighter future for the country, both Brazilian mid-cap and small-cap companies performed well over the period under review. The consumer discretionary sector, followed by the healthcare and materials sectors, all delivered healthy performance. Not one sector detracted from performance, but the energy sector contributed the least.

China

After the uncertainties faced by the two VanEck Vectors China-focused ETFs in 2016, the first six months of 2017 reversed the double digit declines seen by both, with VanEck Vectors ChinaAMC SME-ChiNext ETF (CNXT) and VanEck Vectors ChinaAMC CSI 300 ETF (PEK) returning 7.36% and 14.83%, respectively. China began the year at a furious pace. At the end of June, this led the International Monetary Fund to raise its 2017 growth outlook for the country from its 6.6% forecast in April to 6.7%. However it did recommend that the country accelerate reforms and rein in credit.⁴

CNXT seeks to provide not only exposure primarily to China's market for innovative, non-government owned companies, but also to the sectors that are increasingly underpinning the growth of China's "New Economy". It is, therefore, not surprising that the vast majority of the Fund's gains during the six month period came from companies in the information technology sector. Companies in the consumer discretionary sector detracted the most from performance.

All sectors contributed positively to the performance of PEK. While financial and consumer discretionary companies contributed the most to returns, telecommunications companies and energy contributed the least.

Egypt

Following a difficult year in 2016, things started to look up for Egypt in the first six months of 2017 and, in contrast with the prior 12 months, the Fund returned a respectable 6.96%. In the first quarter of 2017, the country's economy appeared to have stabilized. According to the Ministry of Planning, GDP increased 3.9% year-on-year. This is up from the 3.8% expansion in the fourth quarter of 2016 and above the 3.7% increase the first quarter in 2016.⁵ A further sign of potential improvement was the 1.67% increase in urban consumer prices in May. This was down slightly from April's 1.69% increase. Perhaps demonstrating that the impact of the significant depreciation experienced by the Egyptian pound at the end of 2016 is beginning to diminish, May's figure was the lowest in eight months.⁶ However, on June 27, in a move to help comply with the terms of the country's $12 billion loan from the International Monetary Fund, but which could also stoke inflation and test the popularity of the country's president, Abdel Fattah al-Sisi, fuel prices were hiked by up to 50%. While expected, the rise was more than expected.⁷

The top two performing sectors were materials and financials. The two greatest detractors were energy and telecommunications services. Small-cap companies, with the largest average weighting during the period under review, contributed by far the most to performance. Only large-cap companies, with the smallest average weighting over the period under review, detracted from performance.

India

Despite the fact that economic growth in India slowed down sharply in the first quarter of 2017, VanEck Vectors India Small-Cap Index ETF still returned a noteworthy 36.83% for the six month period under review. At 6.1%, growth in the March quarter fell to its lowest in two years. (In the fourth quarter of 2014 growth dropped to 6.0%.)⁸ Although many expected to see at least some residual effects of November's demonetization (when 1,000 rupee and 500 rupee notes, reportedly some 86% of all currency in circulation⁹ at the time, were banned) in early 2017 economic activity, the sharpness of the slowdown came as a surprise. Capital investments fell an annual 2.1% during the quarter and the drivers of growth remain government and consumer spending.¹⁰ Finally after 10 years, on Saturday, July 1, India will have a new system of taxes—the Goods and Services Tax (GST). Instead of a collection of duties, fees, and central and state tariffs, all goods and services will be placed in one of five different tax brackets, with each product now subject to a single tax rate across the country.¹¹ Going forward, the move is generally seen as being positive for the country's economy.

The consumer discretionary, industrial, and financial sectors all provided excellent returns. While still both making positive contributions, the telecommunications services and energy sectors contributed the least to performance.

Indonesia

The Fund enjoyed a rewarding six month period, returning 12.48%. As if to confirm the good news at the end of December last year that Fitch Ratings had revised the country's credit rating outlook to positive and praised Indonesian policy makers for "strong structural reform,"² the World Bank's "June 2017 Indonesia Economic Quarterly"³ described the country's economy as beginning 2017 on a "strong footing." In May, S&P Global Ratings raised Indonesia's credit rating to investment grade.¹⁴ First quarter GDP growth in 2017 rose to 5.0% from 4.9% in the last quarter of 2016. It was lifted by a rebound in government consumption and surging exports. Private consumption growth in the country has been robust, supported muted inflation and a stable rupiah. "Investment growth continues to be strong on the back of the ongoing recovery in commodity prices, continued reforms to improve the business environment, lower financing rates, and better business sentiment."¹⁵ In an encouraging sign, while Indonesia's consumer price index rose year-on-year in June, the annual core inflation rate (i.e., excluding government-controlled and volatile food prices) fell to 3.13% from 3.20% in May.¹⁶

All sectors, except industrials and utilities, contributed positively to performance, with financials, followed by consumer staples and telecommunication services, contributing the most. The utilities sector detracted the most from performance.

Israel

Despite economic growth in the first quarter of 2017 being slower than expected, at the end of May the Bank of Israel stated that the country's economy was continuing to grow at a solid pace!¹⁷ The Fund returned a healthy 14.64% for the first six months of the year. On an annualized basis, Israel's economy grew at 1.4% in the first three months of the year with the improvement in the growth of exports continuing.¹⁸ However, this contrasted with an annualized growth rate of 4.7% during the last quarter of 2016. In May, exports rose 13.0% compared to May 2016. The highest for eight months, this figure contrasted with the 5.1% drop seen in April.¹⁹

Over the period under review, the performances of all sectors, except healthcare and telecommunication services, contributed positively to performance. Healthcare companies detracted the most from performance. By far the greatest contribution came from companies in the information technology sector with the largest average weighting over the period under review. Mid-cap companies made the greatest contribution to the Fund's performance.

Poland

The Fund had an excellent six months, returning 36.81% in the first half of 2017. While the fourth quarter of 2016 was good for Poland's economy, with growth of 4%, the first quarter of 2017 was even better.²⁰ Drivers of this growth were private consumption (because of a tight labor market) and a recovery in EU-funded investment.²¹ While exports grew during the quarter, so did imports—on the back of a stronger zloty. Fiscal results during the first quarter were also commendable. The country's estimated fiscal deficit for January-May was only 0.3% of the annual plan. It was reassuring, too, that such strong performance was driven by better-than-expected tax collection, signaling that domestic activity was robust.²²

All sectors except one contributed positively to performance. The financial sector was by far the greatest contributor to total returns. The real estate sector was the only sector to detract from performance and, then, only minimally.

Russia

After recording excellent positive returns for calendar year 2016, the first six months of 2017 were difficult not only for VanEck Vectors Russia Small-Cap ETF (RSXJ) and its peer investing in larger cap Russian stocks, VanEck Vectors Russia ETF (RSX), but also Russia's economy. While the former fund returned a positive 3.17% for the first six months of the year, the latter lost 9.60% over the same period.

Two major factors contributing to the economy's poor performance have, not least, been the fall in oil prices and the apparent evaporation of any hope that the election of Donald Trump as U.S. president would lead to an improvement in U.S.-Russia relations. As if to confirm this last, toward the end of June, the U.S. Senate passed a bill that would, according to the Financial Times, "tighten existing sanctions and threatens to broaden the restrictions from energy and banking to metals, mining, railways and shipping."²³ By the end of June, however, the bill remained stuck in Congress, needing technical changes passed by the Senate to be passed by the House. It looked unlikely, therefore, that the legislation would be passed before President Trump had his face-to-face meeting with Russia's President Putin in early July²⁴

Energy companies were by far the most significant detractors from performance in RSX, the large-cap fund. Only the information technology sector contributed positively to performance. For the small-cap fund, RSXJ, companies in the information technology and industrial sectors performed particularly well. However, similarly sized companies in the materials were the largest detractors from performance.

Vietnam

In welcome contrast to its performance in 2016, the Fund returned +14.49% for the six month period under review. Despite a slow start to the year²⁵ (growth declined to 5.1%²⁶ in the first quarter partially as a result of reduced smartphone production by Samsung and the condition of the oil market), in April and May the figures for both retail sales and industrial production were strong.²⁷ According to figures from the country's statistics office, quoted by Bloomberg, inflation eased to a nine-month low of 3.19% in May. In the first five months of the year exports rose 17.4% from a year earlier, and pledged foreign direct investment increased 10.4%.²⁸ Figures published at the end of June for the second quarter of the year showed that, on the back of a surge in exports, Vietnam had rejoined the group of those countries with a GDP growth of 6% or more.²⁹

Small-cap companies, with the greatest average weighting, performed far better than either mid- or large-cap companies over the reporting period. The financial sector was the largest positive contributor to total returns. The energy sector was the only sector to detract from performance.

CSI 300 Index (CSIR0300) is a modified free-float market capitalization weighted index comprised of the largest and most liquid stocks in the Chinese A-share market. Constituent stocks for the Index must have been listed for more than three months (unless the stock's average daily A-share market capitalization since its initial listing ranks among the top 30 of all A-shares) and must not be experiencing what the Index Provider believes to be obvious abnormal fluctuations or market manipulation.

Past performance is no guarantee of future results. Performance results do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder would pay on fund distributions or on the redemption or sale of fund shares.

ABOUT FUND PERFORMANCE

The price used to calculate market return (Share Price) is determined by using the closing price listed on its primary listing exchange. Since the shares of each Fund did not trade in the secondary market until after each Fund's commencement, for the period from commencement to the first day of secondary market trading in shares of each Fund, the NAV of each Fund is used as a proxy for the secondary market trading price to calculate market returns.

The performance data quoted represents past performance. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. Performance information for certain Funds reflect temporary waivers of expenses and/or fees. Had these Funds incurred all expenses, investment returns would have been reduced. These returns do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder would pay on Fund dividends and distributions or the sale of Fund shares.

Investment return and value of the shares of each Fund will fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when sold, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Performance may be lower or higher than performance data quoted. Fund returns reflect reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions. Performance current to the most recent month-end is available by calling 800.826.2333 or by visiting vaneck.com.

Fund shares are not individually redeemable and will be issued and redeemed at their NAV only through certain authorized broker-dealers in large, specified blocks of shares called "creation units" and otherwise can be bought and sold only through exchange trading. Shares may trade at a premium or discount to their NAV in the secondary market.

The "Net Asset Value" (NAV) of a VanEck Vectors exchange-traded fund (ETF) is determined at the close of each business day, and represents the dollar value of one share of the fund; it is calculated by taking the total assets of the fund, subtracting total liabilities, and dividing by the total number of shares outstanding. The NAV is not necessarily the same as the ETF's intraday trading value. VanEck Vectors ETF investors should not expect to buy or sell fund shares at NAV.

All indices are unmanaged and include the reinvestment of all dividends, but do not reflect the payment of transaction costs, advisory fees or expenses that are associated with an investment in the Fund. Certain indices may take into account withholding taxes. An index's performance is not illustrative of the Fund's performance. Indices are not securities in which investments can be made. Results reflect past performance and do not guarantee future results.

EXPLANATION OF EXPENSES

Hypothetical $1,000 investment at beginning of period

As a shareholder of a Fund, you incur operating expenses, including management fees and other Fund expenses. This disclosure is intended to help you understand the ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in your Fund and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The disclosure is based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the period and held for the entire period, January 1, 2017 to June 30, 2017.

Actual Expenses

The first line in the table below provides information about account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During the Period."

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line in the table below provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on your Fund's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Fund's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in your Fund and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of other funds.

Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as brokerage commissions paid on purchases and sales. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher.

* The Nigerian securities were valued using Level 1 quoted prices, and used the Nigerian Autonomous Foreign Exchange Rate Fixing (NAFEX) to translate the Nigerian naira into U.S. dollars.

During the period ended June 30, 2017, transfers of securities from Level 1 to Level 2 were $3,258,042 and transfers from Level 2 to Level 1 were $14,151,649. These transfers resulted primarily from changes in certain foreign securities valuation methodologies between the last close of the securities' primary market (Level 1) and valuation by a pricing service (Level 2), which takes into account market direction or events occurring before the Fund's pricing time but after the last local close, as described in the Notes to Schedules of Investments.

During the period ended June 30, 2017, transfers of securities from Level 1 to Level 2 were $484,935 and transfers from Level 2 to Level 1 were $1,075,891. These transfers resulted primarily from changes in certain foreign securities valuation methodologies between the last close of the securities' primary market (Level 1) and valuation by a pricing service (Level 2), which takes into account market direction or events occurring before the Fund's pricing time but after the last local close, as described in the Notes to Schedules of Investments.
