BOC and Sinopec SPC to form industrial gases joint venture in Shanghai

Windlesham, UK, 3 June, 2004 - BOC (LSE: BOC), the leading industrial gases supplier in Asia, and Sinopec Shanghai Petrochemical Company Ltd. (SPC), a subsidiary of Sinopec Corp., have signed a letter of intent to form a joint venture (JV) to meet the industrial gases needs of SPC in the Jinshan District, Shanghai, China.

The JV expects to invest initially in the production of nearly 3,000 tonnes per day of air separation gases capacity through the acquisition of SPC's existing industrial gases assets and then to commence construction of a new world-scale air separation unit (ASU).

The scale economics of the project, with its reliable, multi-plant arrangement, will result in the JV becoming a major industrial gases supplier in the region. The JV will support SPC's fast growing petrochemical business and those of additional customers in the area. The Jinshan District where the JV will be located is one of the major areas of petrochemical investment in China and, aside from the SPC complex, includes the nearby Shanghai Industrial Chemical Park, where a number of global and local chemical companies are located.

The JV will be the second industrial gases venture that BOC has entered into with a Sinopec company. In April 2002, BOC and Sinopec Yangzi Petrochemical Corp. (Sinopec YPC), a subsidiary of the Sinopec Group, formed a joint venture known as Nanjing BOC-YPC Gases Company Ltd. (BYG) to meet expanding industrial gases requirements in Nanjing, China. BYG has entered into long-term supply agreements with two major industrial gas users in the area, the large YPC Petrochemical Co. Ltd complex and the BASF-YPC Company Ltd integrated petrochemical complex, both located in the Nanjing Chemical Industry Park.

Mr. Wu Hai Jun, deputy general manager, Sinopec Shanghai Petrochemical Co., Ltd said: "By co-operating with BOC - an international and professional gas company - to supply utilities and infrastructure services, SPC will be able to focus more on developing and enhancing the competitiveness of its core business in the petrochemical industry. The co-operation not only benefits SPC in terms of production cost reduction and business profitability but also allows us to supply customers in the adjacent areas with gas products that will deliver attractive returns for both partners."

Steven Fang, global vice president, BOC Process Systems, said: "We are delighted to be able to extend our partnership with Sinopec through this second JV and further strengthen our position as the leading industrial gases supplier to the petrochemical industry in China. We are very confident that this JV, like our current partnership in Nanjing, will leverage both parties' resources and capabilities to optimize plant operations in support of Sinopec's petrochemical business and other major investors in the region."

SPC, Sinopec Corp.'s largest subsidiary, was the first Chinese company listed on the New York, Hong Kong and Shanghai stock exchanges. It is one of the largest petrochemical companies in China, producing refined oil products, intermediate petrochemicals, synthetic fibres and plastics. It is also the largest ethylene and acrylic fibre producer, and one of the most important producers of oil products, resins and synthetic fibres in China.

The BOC Group (LSE:BOC), the worldwide industrial gases, vacuum technologies and distribution services company, serves two million customers in more than 50 countries. It employs 44,500 people and had annual sales of some (pound)4.3 billion in 2003.

BOC was the first global industrial gases company to establish a presence in China and has invested more than US$400 million over the past two decades. In addition to its joint venture relationship with Sinopec, BOC has recently initiated important capacity expansions with Taiyuan Iron and Steel Corporation (TISCO), the largest stainless steel producer in China; and Guangzhou Iron and Steel (GIS), a major steel producer in China with an annual steel production capacity of 3.5 million tons.

BOC supplies gas and related solutions to the chemicals, petroleum, glass, water services, electronic packaging, fibre optics, hydrogen energy, metals and food industries. BOC helps meet customer needs in a variety of ways, from the supply of a single gas or application through to designing, constructing and operating fully integrated gas and utilities schemes.
