Dear Customer:

I wanted to inform you personally that Goodrich recently announced that it has entered into an agreement to merge with United Technologies. Attached for your convenience is a copy of the press release we issued announcing this significant development in our company's history.

As I am sure you are aware, United Technologies is a diversified company that provides high technology products and services to the aerospace and defense and building industries. At its core, this combination is about enhancing our ability to innovate and provide high quality products and services to customers like you around the world. We look forward to building upon our partnership with you and hope you share our enthusiasm about the company's exciting future.

We are delighted about the benefits this combination affords our shareholders, employees and you, our valued customers who rely on our products and services. As a combined company, we will benefit from increased scale and financial strength and will have a suite of complementary aerospace and defense product lines and technologies. In addition, the combined company will have significant and stable cash flows to support organic growth and R&D efforts that will allow the company to sustain its leadership position in innovation.

The transaction is expected to be completed in mid-2012, and is subject to approval from Goodrich shareholders, regulatory approvals and other customary closing conditions. In the meantime, it is business as usual at Goodrich.

Your Goodrich contacts will remain the same, and we will continue to do everything you have come to expect from us.

Following completion of the transaction Marshall Larsen, Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer of Goodrich, will become Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of a combined UTC Aerospace Systems business unit. The senior leadership team of the combined business will be located in Charlotte, North Carolina. Both Goodrich and United Technologies' Hamilton Sundstrand brands will be maintained within this business unit.

Goodrich and United Technologies both have successful integration track records, and given the complementary nature of our businesses, we expect a seamless transition for all of our customers and our commitment to you will remain the same.

As we move through this process, we will continue to keep you updated on important developments. We value our relationship with you and appreciate your business. Together, we look forward to continuing to provide you with best-in-class products and service for many years to come. As always, if you have any questions please do not hesitate to reach out to your usual Goodrich contacts.

Thank you for your continued business, and we look forward to a productive new era of opportunities together as part of United Technologies.

Sincerely,
