Until the closing of this transaction, we will continue to operate as an independent company and remain focused on serving you with the same quality and commitment you've come to expect from us.

3. Who is Schlumberger? Why is Cameron combining with them?

Schlumberger is the world's leading supplier of technology, integrated project management and information solutions to customers working in the oil and gas industry worldwide.

Employing approximately 108,000 people representing more than 140 nationalities and working in more than 85 countries, Schlumberger provides the industry's widest range of products and services from exploration through production.

Through OneSubsea, our joint venture with Schlumberger, we've had an opportunity to see first-hand that Schlumberger shares our vision and mirrors our organization — a company with a rich history, strong core values similar to ours and a commitment to safety and its customers.

Cameron and Schlumberger fit very well together. While Schlumberger is the world's number one integrated oilfield service company, Cameron will provide the world-class flow control equipment and related manufacturing expertise. This combined company will allow us to better serve the changing needs of our customers around the world.

4. Will this announcement have an immediate effect on day-to-day operations or my contact at Cameron?

No. Until the transaction closes, we will continue to operate as an independent company.

Because Cameron and Schlumberger already know each other well, we are confident that it will be a smooth integration for existing Cameron customers upon closing the transaction.

While we are very excited about the transaction and what it will mean for our business in the long-term, in the near-term our top priority will be continuing to operate as usual.

Additionally, your Cameron contact remains the same and we look forward to continuing to work with you as usual through the closing of the transaction.

5. I am also a customer of Schlumberger's business – should I consolidate my business now?

Until the transaction closes, which we expect to occur in the first quarter of 2016, Cameron will continue to operate as an independent company.

6. What will happen to the Cameron brand? Will there be changes to Cameron's products or services?

The Cameron brand will remain prominent within Schlumberger.

We believe that this combination will deliver many benefits for our business and our customers.
